Bus Service May Start by Mid-April–Two Public Hearings Scheduled for Dial-A-Ride

If you think it's hard to start a balky car these cold, rainy spring mornings, try and start up a local bus route sometime.

Right now, it looks as though---maybe and perhaps---the two buses will begin to move on their looping routes about April 15. As a result of the public discussions March 21, and suggestions made by potential riders at that meeting, the route of the loop has been changed, and on Monday night, Township Committee passed a resolution setting up bus stops. The Borough has already approved the loop change and the stops. State OK is now required.

Buses will start, on the revised loop, at the Lawrence Apartments for University graduate students. Buses will go by the Hibben-Magie junior faculty apartments, but not into the area because the drives are too narrow. Then, the bus will go along Faculty to Harrison---not using FitzRandolph or Broadmead. On the eastern side of town, the bus will travel Magnolia, then go up Abernathy to Snowden, and along Franklin to Harrison.

To the relief of everybody who lives on Valley Road, Committee announced Monday that no buses will travel Valley. A 56-name petition against using Valley for buses had been presented to Committee earlier.

Actual start of bus service doesn't hinge on what happens to the proposed Dial-A-Ride service, it's a good thing they aren't linked because if they were, Princeton's bus riders might stand forever, waiting at a bus stop.

Both Borough Council and Township Committee have amended their Dial-A-Ride ordinances. Council will hold public hearing on its changes next Tuesday; Committee's public hearing on its alterations will be April 15.

The ordinances, at this point, are not alike. Each body has acted separately, with only the Joint Transportation Committee as a kind of weak binding agent, helpless to make the two governing bodies synchronize what is to be a community-wide project.

However, Committee assured everybody Monday night that conferences will be held with the Borough before the April 15 hearing. Obviously, a public transportation service like Dial-A-Ride, taking passengers back and forth across the Borough-Township line, will operate under a single set of rules, but the whip-sawing between the two governing bodies and the amount of time it has taken---will take---to reconcile different ordinances, has meant weeks of delay.

For example, at the moment, the Borough ordinance says Dial-A-Ride will operate five days a week; the Township ordinance says six The Borough ordinance was amended at the public hearing last Wednesday to provide that the service operate a minimum of 12 hours a day at unspecified hours; the Township ordinance spells out those 12 hours---7 a.m. to 7 p.m.---and provides that changes in hours or days can be done only by Township Committee resolution.

Township Committee Exempts Over 90% of Homes From Ordinance Requiring Pre-Sale Inspection

Township home-owners (and real-estate agents, wherever they may live) can now relax: Committee has changed its housing inspection ordinance.

The required Board of Health inspection before a house can be sold, now applies only to houses with private sewage systems or private water-supply systems (wells), as a result of action taken Monday night by Township Committee.

Also, the ordinance now specifies the exact edition of the National Electrical Code that will apply to Township houses, so that owners won't go bankrupt trying to keep up with Code revisions. In addition, the ordinance now says that if you're a landlord owning Princeton property, you don't have to hire a resident Princeton agent if you yourself live in a municipality contiguous to the Township.

When somebody asked "What about Rocky Hill?" Committee members hastily amended the amendment to include communities within townships contiguous to Princeton Township.

Board of Health Approves. The Board of Health wanted the inspection-before-sale ordinance because so many new buyers have found themselves stuck with malfunctioning septic systems or polluted wells. The new versions satisfies the health board, reported Committee member Margaret Broadwater.

She said that about 300 houses in the Township, out of a 4,000 total, have these private systems, and she told Committee the health officer hopes to make septic inspections on a regular six-month basis even when homes aren't on the market.

After announcing these changes, Committee voted to wipe out the earlier ordinance amendment, which had been the object of heated protest by home-owners and real-estate agents, and then voted the new amendments in. Public hearing on them will be April 15.

In a midnight session chiefly devoted to bus transportation

This Is Princeton

(see cover), Committee members occupied much of the evening hammering out ordinance amendments almost from scratch, arguing legalisms and semantics, until finally Mayor Jay Bleiman observed, to no one in particular, "How do you like ordinance-drafting by committee?"

The American Legion's annual Memorial Day observance may take a different form next year. Committee made its usual pledge of $250 for the Legion's Memorial Day events, but warned that things may be different in 1975.

Contribution Questioned. "I'm not sure it's appropriate to use tax dollars for this purpose," said Committeeman William Sutphin, explaining that he was a Korean War veteran and that both his parents were World War I veterans and charter American Legion members.

"We don't contribute to other worthy private organizations," added Mrs. Broadwater, and she asked whether there was a statutory basis for the annual contribution.

"It is a municipal commemorative event," replied Mayor Bleiman.

"Don't let's cut the Legion off cold-turkey," Mr. Sutphin said. "But let's think, for 1975, about using tax dollars for this."

Committee decided to re-advertise bids for municipal garbage collection. The low bidder, James ("Along Came") Jones had not enclosed the required certified check of deposit. His $34,800 bid compared with the $36,000 bid of Jule Huntley, the incumbent collector.

Tennis courts will be classified like swimming pools, under a proposed zoning ordinance amendment. Under the measure, courts would have to be built in accordance with side-yard set-backs, and so on, just as pools must be. Architect William Short protested ("What about dog-runs? Quoits courts? Basketball?") and warned that he would appear at the April 15 public hearing.

Sewer-Imposed Moratorium on New Building May Be Extended in Princeton Indefinitely

Princeton's sewer moratorium, which has halted all building in the community for over a year, may last into the indefinite future as a result of new directives from the Federal environmental level.

To get Princeton out from under the state-imposed ban, Borough and Township 1974 budgets set aside $200,000 for a detailed study which would show how much water is infiltrating Princeton's sewer pipes, where the worst infiltration is and what could be done about it. This would at least satisfy the state that something was being done, Princeton officials reasoned, and might speed the lifting of the sewer-connection ban.

Princeton cannot proceed with this program. (It is also in the Township's capital budget.)

Because Federal Environmental Protection Agency officials now warn that if Princeton goes ahead with its own sewer survey, and does remedial work without prior Rederal OK, any future Federal funding for Princeton could be jeopardized.

Not only that, since Princeton's sewer system is part of the Stony Brook Regional Sewer Authority, any Authority applications for Federal money could be endangered, too.

Federal Funds Available. "We've submitted, informally, the data to prove we have an infiltration-inflow problem," says Donald Harney, sanitary engineer with Princeton's Sewer Operating Committee. "The idea is the EPA can just look at our analysis, and tell us whether we have enough information and so on. Then, if they approve, we could apply for a 'Step II' grant.

"That would give us Federal money for an evaluation of the sewer system. Here, you'd get more data, so you could isolate where the problems are. They might say, the Federal people, that it's cheaper to build a bigger plant than to replace these pipes that cause all the infiltration and the trouble."

Mr. Harney submitted the analysis around the end of January, both to Federal and state environmental officials. About two weeks ago, an EPA official told him no date had even been set for a discussion of the data.

About two weeks before that—early in March—Mr. Harney learned that Princeton would not be able to proceed with its own infiltration program.

Two May Withdraw. Meanwhile, the boroughs of Pennington and Hopewell are thinking about building their own sewer treatment plants, because the Stony Brook Regional Sewer Authority's plans for a regional sewer have come to a dead stall, as a result of Federal EPA action.

The EPA has suggested construction of a treatment plant in Princeton—near the present one—to serve the two Princetons and West Windsor, with South Brunswick as a customer. South Brunswick does not belong to the Authority. The EPA has also made new requests for additional information which the agency says is required to evaluate the Authority's environmental impact study.

Pennington has applied for Federal approval for its own $3 million sewage treatment plant with a half-million gallon per day capacity. The plans used are those drawn up eight years ago, but set aside when the state forced Pennington to join the Authority.

Hopewell Borough is said to be planning its own $2 million plant, also working from 1966 drawings.

Bus Service Coming

The Borough had amended its ordinance to require payment of the 50 cent fare when you board the bus (not when you leave, as with a taxi). The Township changed its ordinance to conform, and one Committeeman added, "....if it makes the Borough happier."

In addition, the Township introduced an amendment Monday spelling out in great detail precisely what kind of vehicle a Dial-A-Ride licensee must have.

The amended ordinance requires a vehicle with a capacity for 10 passengers plus driver; a vehicle with only one, right-hand passenger door through which people may enter, and an aisle to walk in order to reach the seat; a transceiver in the vehicle, which transmits and receives calls on the same frequency, linking vehicle and dispatching office and finally, an auxiliary step....mostly for the elderly but also useful for small children and, the five-foot Mrs. Draper pointed out, for short people, too.

Mr. Draper told the Committee the detailed requirements would protect him from competition. They describe quite precisely the Mercedes vehicle the Drapers already own.

How Much Competition? The threat of killing competition loomed darkly over the lengthy public hearing Monday night. Committeeman Abbot Low Moffat warned that it might be trickly for Princeton to support even one Dial-A-Ride, and that competing services might kill each other. From the audience, Todd Peyton asked,

"What's to prevent a taxi-owner with a station-wagon from setting up a competing, temporary business with the deliberate purpose of killing this off?"

The requirement for a single passenger door and an aisle is designed to eliminate station-wagons.

Princeton's taxi-owners oppose Dial-A-Ride. None appeared at Township Hall to protest the Township ordinance, but their spokesman, Thomas Moore, president of the Princeton Taxi Owners Association, told Borough Council last week that Dial-A-Ride would erode the taxi business and might even put some drivers out of business.

Criticism of taxi service has been sharp and vocal at these recent bus-route, Dial-A-Ride hearings. Monday, one woman complained to Committee that "Taxi service osed to be good, but it's very difficult now to get a cab: they tell you they only make charter trips to New York."

A Borough-Township study of the taxi situation has been recommended by the Joint Transportation Commission. William Starr, Commission chairman, told Committee Monday that the cab drivers want this, too.

Conflicting Services. Another kind of "competition" is the Crosstown-62 service for the elderly. Mr. Moffat warned Monday that Borough and Township can't go on spending $1,100 a month to subsidize the dozen passengers that use Crosstown daily, and he added "Dial-A-Ride is exactly what the elderly have been asking for." Crosstown is scheduled to continue until November.

In the Borough, Councilman Arthur Morgan is so distressed abou the economic frailty of Dial-A-Ride that he's in a mood to stop and begin all over again. He case the lone "no" against the Borough's two amendments.

"It's ironic," he says, "At last we're giving birth to Dial-A-Ride, which we should have done two years ago, but now we've made it impossible for the baby to survive."

Dial-A-Ride will be competing with the shuttle and loop rootes, both subsidized; with Mercer Metro and Suburban Transit and with the taxis, Mr. Morgan points out.

"It's economic suicide to operate only 12 hours a day," he continues, "If Dial-A-Ride can get half-a-dozen Great Road commuters at 6:30 a.m., why shouldn't they? I asked the Transportation Commission why the hours were restricted and they had no answer."

Other Suggestions. Both Mr. Morgan and Mr. Moffat, each in a somewhat different way, would like to see the Drapers take over the shuttle route from Jadwin parking lot to the central business district. The Drapers were denied the route because the Transportation Commission doesn't think a 10-passenger vehicle is big enough, and because the Drapers are inexperienced.

Mr. Moffat suggested that if Dial-A-Ride works out in a trial period of 90 days, or perhaps even 180 days, there would be no reason not to subsidize them and think about letting them take the shottle.

Mr. Morgan points out that the Drapers have already said they have access to, and money for, additional 10-passenger vehicles. "Why not wait while they get more buses---a couple of weeks--- and let them do the shuttle, which they could probably do all right on, financially."

"I favor Dial-A-Ride," Mr. Morgan says.

"There has never been any desire, either on Committee or on Borough Council, NOT to encourage Dial-A-Ride," Mr. Moffat says.

PLAN AHEAD

For Municipal Expenses. A five-year capital budget which includes everything from clearing picnic-grounds in 1974 to buying a firetruck in 1979, has been presented to the public by Township Committee.

Following Planning Board comment this Tuesday, the plans go back to Townshio Committee for April 15 action.

Nothing in the budget is binding and changes can be made all along the line. Nor are dollar figures and priorities fixed.

"If we can cut costs, we will," is the statement of Gerard Miller of the Township Administrator's staff.

For 1974, the big item is $300,000 for developing the north side of Community Park. This Monday night, Committee authorized an expenditure of $1,600 for a topographical survey, to be done in the next two weeks by the Township's own engineering staff. Present maps show only a five-foot contour interval; a two-foot interval is needed for planning.

In mid-March, the Borough agreed that plans should go forward (the extent of Borough help in paying for it all, is undetermined).

The survey will show whether the small stream should be dammed to make a pond where boating and ice-skating could be pursued in season. For this year, action may be limited to plans and the start of picnic-grounds, playing fields and an outdoor amphitheatre. The Federal Bureau of Outdoor Recreation will be approached for financial help.

Next in line on the budget is a modest $25,000 for improvement to Township Hall. The possibility of consolidation with the Borough keeps holding up needed expansion and improvements.

There is $25,000 to design corrective projects for flood control on Harry's Brook, and for a Terhune Road culvert (will Mercer County pay any part of this? That's an unknown, so the Township has set aside $16,000.

If Bureau of Outdoor Recreation funds are available, there will be a Great Road bike path, at an estimated total cost of $115,050, with the Township's share $57,525. However, nobody in the BOR has clarified the difference between - a path used for recreation and one used for transportation, and until this has been done, the outlook for money is murky.

Cyclists will be able to use the new six-foot sidewalk along Snowden Lane ($9,400) and the continuation of the Johnson Park path ($8,450).

Sewers for Random Road and Greenhouse Drive—both recommended by the Board of Health, and or Stuart Road East—and the replacement of a front-end loader for $24,000.

IDA TO COURT

This Friday. The suit of Robert and Julia Hosford, 430 Terhune, designed to keep the Institute for Defense Analyses from building in Princeton Township will be before Superior Court Judge George Y. Schoch this Friday.

The Hosfords and their attorney, Theodore Vreeland, want the court to issue an injunction to prevent Page Associates—IDA's landlord, if the building is put up—from starting construction.

Defendants in the action are the Princeton Regional Planning Board, Township Mayor Jay Bleiman and Township building inspector W. Joseph Shinn; the Thanet Corp. owner of the land; IDA and Page.

They have banded together in a motion for summary judgment. This means they believe no essential factual issue is involved, and given the facts as they appear, they think they are entitled to a favorable judgment from the court.

William Miller, Planning Board attorney, is representing the board and municipal personoel. Garret M. Heher is Thanet's lawyer, Colman T. Brennan of Cahil, McCarthy, Bacsik and Hicks is representing IDA and Page.

ON COUNCIL AGENDA

Zoning, Dial-A-Ride. At Borough Council's April meeting next Tuesday (8 p.m., Borough Hall), Council is expected to vote down the ordinance changing the R-0-1 zone around Charlton Street, to R-B (Residence-Business). The permanent housing subcommittee of the Planning Board will examine the neighborhood for recommendations.

Action on changing the parking lot R-O-2 to CB (Central Business) will probably be deferred until May because the Planning Board report haso't been completed yet.

Dial-A-Ride ordinance amendments will be up for public hearing.

3 THEFTS REPORTED

At John Witherspoon School. Township police report three thefts at the John Witherspoon School last week—all Thursday and Friday.

The school's library door was forced open, police said, and a $35 microphone and $25 needle cartridge taken from the audio-visual room which is off the library. From the French room, which also runs off the library, a tape recorder was taken from a filing cabinet. It was valued at $50. Both thefts were investigated by Ptl. John H. Clausen, Jr.

On Thursday between 1:45 and 2:45, the door to an office next to the gym was forced open and $40 was removed from a wallet owned by Beverly J. Corson. The theft was reported by assistant principal Philip Cobb and investigated by Ptl. Jerry Offredo.

Stereo System Taken. A stereo system and casette tape deck with a value of $552 was stolen during daylight hours last week from Room 202 in 1937 Hall, Princeton University.

Police report entry was gained by removing a screen from an open window. The room was ransacked. Police identified the owner as Warren Schmaus.

Two stereo speakers ($100 each) were removed last week between 5 and 7 p.m. from the Princeton Youth Center, 102

Condominium Plan for Old Quarry Site Draws Neighbors' Wrath

Plans to construct 32 condominium homes on 3.2 acres of land on the old quarry site between Harrison and Spruce Streets drew such an indignant, standing-room-only audience to Borough Hall for Tuesday's Planning Board meeting, that the board had to push the rest of its agenda to a future meeting. (Next Wednesday, April 10, at 8 p.m.)

Charles LaPlaca and his "Princeton Ventures" company propose to extend Spruce Street into the barren, scrub-grass, lightly wooded area west of the Lloyd Terrace housing project for the elderly. All 32 units would be constructed on the south, or Nassau, side of this Spruce Street extension. The north side would be divided into four lots of conforming size, for some future use.

The homes—reportedly in the $60,000 range, in 1974 money—would consist of 15 two-bedroom units, 10 three-bedroom units, seven four-bedroom units and four garages holding five cars each. A tennis court and two open-space areas would be included.

Mark Berkowsky, for architects Walker, Sander, Ford and Kerr, reminded the board that the area is R-3, where multiple dwellings are a conditional use (the Zoning Board will have to decide that one, acting on whatever recommendation the Planning Board makes).

He told the board that his plans conformed to the zoning ordinance's conditions: the allowed coverage is 25 , his plans provide 23.5 ; the ordinance requires one parking space per unit, he has planned 37 for the 32 homes.

Open space was the prompt concern of board members. Mr. Berkowsky defined it as "anything not built on, but not including streets." The project has more open space than the ordinance requires, but a later speaker from the audience referred to it as "gerrymandered."

A piece of corner land is shown on the site-plan as dedicated open space. But if it's dedicated, the developer can't count it in the open space he's required to have under the zoning ordinance. Thomas Jamieson Jr., Mr. LaPlaca's lawyer, said his client didn't need the space to comply. He told the board the land could be used by Lloyd Terrace residents, as well as by owners of the condominium units.

Drainage came next. Bryce Rittenhouse, engineer for the project, said the land is so bare now that even when developed, it would have about the same rate and volume of water runoff as it does at present. Questioned by board member Golda Gottlieb about his drainage plans, Mr. Rittenhouse said he planned to take surface water by pipe to the northeast corner of the property and let it into Harry's Brook, which is a tamed, underground waterway in this part of town.

Borough engineer Donald Harney raised zoning-style questions. The distance between buildings may be too narrow to conform to zoning requirements, the tennis court fence is on the lot line, buildings are too close to the street—the minimum requirement is 20 feet.

Mrs. Gottlieb asked how close one unit of dwellings was to the rear of properties on Linden Lane; 20 feet back from the lot line, Mr Berkowsky replied, and about 50 feet from houses themselves.

"How do you justify this project, in this area?" asked Norman Williams of Mr Jamieson. Hans Sander board chairman, disqualified himself because his firm is the architect, and Mr. Williams presided.

Mr. Jamieson replied that the zoning ordinance provides for conditional uses, and if you comply, you're justified. Mr Williams said he disagreed, but didn't argue the point.

It was two hours before the audience got to have its say. John L. McGoldrick, 163 Hamilton, reminded the board that part of this land is on the Borough Master Plan as a park, and he urged the board to defer action—even freeze the area for one year, in hopeful waiting for state money, or the release of impounded Federal open space funds.

This part of the Borough already has Queenston Common condominiums, he pointed out, and in response to Mr. Jamieson's remark that the zoning ordinance provides for conditional uses, he observed that zoning standards remain the controlling factor, even though the ordinance allows such uses, on condition.

"Is this sound master planning?" he asked, "Chipping away, allowing development by piece-meal bites at the Master Plan—soon the town won't look much like the Master Plan."

Many in the audience had signed on as members of the new Princeton Quarry Park Association, formed last week by John de Grazia, Rutgers urban planning student and lifelong Princeton resident, who lives at 16 Linden Lane.

Mr. de Grazia, who said he already has 50 members in his new organization, had brought a delegation of Lloyd Terrace residents, doughtily opposed to a possible neighborhood of condominiums.

The new association wants to preserve the old quarry site as open land, improving it through landscaping work done by neighbors themselves, possibly helped by Borough—or Princeton University—money. The area would be developed to include a children's playground, a nature study area, a quiet spot for Lloyd Terrace's elderly, and a local point for neighborhood gatherings.

Better Off Than Us

Know why the sun
Stays in the sky?
"I like it here—
It's high and dry."

Know what? Tuesday was the first day in four that the sun put in an appearance, after March bowed out with that unseasonable and unwelcome two-inch snowfall. Among other developments, all that cold weather during the latter half of the month dropped the eventual mean temperature to barely above normal.

Milder weather and clearer skies are part of the immediate future, it says here. So is the almost daily forecast of possible showers. It's April, isn't it?

Witherspoon Street. Fred Tyler reported the theft.

Christopher Aldrich, 229 John Street, told police that his car's battery, which he valued at $60, was stolen between 11:55 Saturday night and 2:30 the following afternoon while it was parked on East Stanworth Drive.

Robert Panicaro, owner of Durner's Barber Shop on Palmer Square, left his shop unattended for a few minutes at 7:30 one morning last week. When he returned, he told police, he noticed that the "No Sale" button on the register had been pushed and the door was open. Thirty dollars was missing.

Early in the afternoon during Saturday's rain, two youths walked into the Princeton Army-Navy Store and walked out with an umbrella. Owner Al Bonin valued it at $5.

GROUND—BREAKING SET For Forrestal Project. After nearly two years of planning by Princeton University and its consultants, ground is expected to be broken next month on the first phase of the Forrestal Center—a planned office-research-commercial-residential development planned for a 1,600-acre tract on Route 1 in Plainsboro Township.

Plans were formalized at a press conference last week. The purchase of 70 acres of land by the Robert Wood Johnson Foundation, for a price of just under $2 million, was formally completed. The Foundation will break ground in May for a two-story, 45,000 square foot headquarters building.

The University also announced that it will begin work in May on a 3,000 foot long, four-lane access road, running east from the jug handle on Route 1 at College Road into the 228-acre Phipps tract that has been reserved for the project's first phase of development.

The Johnson Foundation, the assets of which make it either the second, third or fourth largest foundation in the world—depending on the stock market, expects to move from its temporary quarters on the existing Forrestal Campus into its new home in about two years.

The University expects that the access road, which will end in a cul-de-sac for the time being, will be completed by September. Princeton spokesmen said they had signed up no other firms for office or research space in the first phase area, but they were close to completing several deals.

'Good Neighbors.' Present at the conference were Princeton President William G. Bowen, Johnson Foundation Chairman Gustav O. Lienhard, and Governor Brendan T. Byrne.

"I am pleased the project has started so auspiciously," President Bowen told Chairman Lienhard. "I am confident the Johnson Foundation will help significantly in the development of the area. You are going to set the right standards, the right tone. You're going to be good neighbors."

Mr. Lienhard replied: "I think the restrictions and conditions that you at Princeton have set will be conducive to bringing in good neighbors. The architecture of our building, by Brown and Matthews, will be quite interesting."

Governor Byrne added: "I'm delighted. It's a beautiful first step." Noting that he wanted the State of New Jersey to become more closely involved in land-use planning, working in tandem with other organizations where possible, the Governor said: "This development is encouraging in that respect. I hope that there will be others following this pattern."

Concept Plan. The University, meanwhile, will continue meetings with Plainsboro and other governmental units to clear

Kathy Edwards Winner of $100,000 in Pennsylvania Lottery

"I started screaming! I just couldn't stop screaming! I am STILL screaming!"

Kathy Edwards—Mrs. R.E Edwards, 25 Green Street—has won $100,000 in Pennsylvania's Lucky 7 lottery.

"It was Thursday night (March 21). I hadn't had a chance to see the papers all day so I picked up the Trenton Times just before the 11 o'clock news and I saw this number: 404036. At first I thought my ticket said '26' but I looked again and it was '36' all right."

"I WENT STRAIGHT UP IN THE AIR! I started screaming 'We hit it! We hit it! We hit it!' Well, my kids came running downstairs. 'Something's wrong with mommie,' they said, 'Naw, she's just watching TV and yelling.'" (The kids are Portia, age 21; and her sister Jamie, age 23.)

"NO!" I screamed, "We hit it! We won $75,000—because that's what I thought it was, then. And I began waving my arms, well, do you know, my arms are STILL tired from all that waving!"

"After a minute, Penny came in" (Penelope, the eldest Edwards child, who is Deputy Clerk of Princeton Borough). "I was in a state of shock...out of this world...screaming..."

"Mother." Penny is the quiet one in the family.

"Mother, I don't believe it. Let me check your ticket."

"Well, she couldn't get it out of my hand. I had it in a death grip! She checked it with the paper. I got out my magnifying glass. That was it, all right! Neighbors must have thought there was murder going on at 25 Green Street. My kids made me a cup of tea. I went to bed."

Not A Wink. "Sleep? How could I sleep? I didn't get to sleep 'til 4 a.m. Well, I got up at 5 a.m. I was so nervious I couldn't find my shoes. couldn't find my toothbrush. even, and they were right there beside me. My stomach....well, I'm STILL shaking!"

Mrs. Edwards is in the personnel department at Fort Dix, and she drives to work early each morning. When she arrived at her office, she told her supervisor the news, and announced she would have to travel to Pennsylvania that day to have the winning certified.

"My boss—didn't believe me. 'Katie, what IS this?' Somebody get me a morning paper.' So they got him a Trentonian, and he just stood there, looking at my ticket and then at the paper and then he said to me—

"'Katie, I hate to tell you this, but it's $100,000—not $75,000.'

"Well, I went out again! Into a state of shock!"

That's the Ticket. Nobody in Kathy Edwards' office worked that Friday. Two colleagues went with her to a state liquor store in Pennsylvania to have the ticket verified.

"I was so nervous! While the man looked it up and made a telephone call, and then came back....I could hardly sign my name, I couldn't even speak."

"I can't drive home, I said. I was shaking like mad. But I did, about 10 miles an hour. I got home Friday and went stright to bed. Sunday, I went to church, then hid. Telephone, doorbell—tell them I can't stand any more!'"

Mrs. Edwards bought her winner from a Fort Dix colleague who lives in Philadelphia. She has been buying two 50 cent tickets and one $1 Lucky 7 ticket twice a month since November.

"It's for education, and for the institutions and agencies of Pennsylvania, and I always figured it was for a good cause. What am I going to do with it? Well, fix up my house first, then take care of my brats" (the four Edwards children; Penny, Portia, Jamie and Richard). Then buy a camper and tour out west, then go back to work."

The Commonwealth of Pennsylvania and the IRS will help Mrs. Edwards dispose of her $100,000. Pennsylvania state income tax will take two percent; averaging out her yearly income over a period of years will provide some anaesthesia for the Federal tax bite.

Mrs. Edwards, a native of Princeton, has long been active in community affairs. She served on the Princeton Regional Board of Education from 1969 to 1972, is currently a member of the Budget Committee of the United Fund, and is a member of Borough Mayor Robert W. Cawley's Central Business District Advisory Committee.

"There in Pennsylvania, when I was waiting for the ticket to be validated, and when it was, I was so nervous I couldn't talk or couldn't sign. One of my Fort Dix friends who came with me said to the other friend:

"We should have a tape recorder. This is the first time in her life she hasn't had anything to say."

The certified check is due this week.

the way for additional development. The Township recently adopted a planned, multi-use development ordinance, under which the University must now submit a detailed concept plan for the balance of the Forrestal Center.

The Township also passed a one-year moratorium on new development in Plainsboro. That moratorium does not effect the Phipps tract, which was already subdivided and approved for development.

But the University has one other serious problem delaying construction elsewhere in the development: sewers. The problem is being solved in the Phipps tract by the use of a septic system. Additional development, the University concedes, would require more extensive sewage systems, which are not likely to be constructed in the near future.

MULTIPLE USE GRANTED

For 51 Patton Avenue. By a 3-2 vote, the Borough Zoning Board last week made a favorable recommendation to Mayor and Council to grant a use variance to Abraham and Blanche Sherman, allowing them to convert the building at 51 Patton Avenue to multiple family use.

The board's vote accomplished several things. It reversed a ruling of Zoning Officer Donald Harney that the structure was legally only a single family dwelling; it gave approval to use the third floor as a rental to a single occupant---provided it had a separate, private entrance---and it granted the necessary variances for parking spaces within four feet of the property line.

In its decision, the board stated that the building had been approved for two-family use in 1949 and that there had been no action since then resulting in a change of use.

The application was opposed by Robert L. Davidson, 45 Patton Avenue, who complained of greater density and parking use if the variance were granted. He also told the board that the property had not been well maintained.

Several letters to the board also opposed the application.

"Yes" to Solar Home. In a unanimous decision, the board granted front and side yard variances to Douglas Kelbaugh by reason of "extraordinary and exceptional situation and condition," enabling him to build a home that will be heated by solar heat. It will be located at 70 Pine Street.

A house to the south of the proposed home, located close to the property line as the result of a sub-division, would cast substantial shadows on the proposed solar home. "We find such strict application of the ... yard restrictions in this case would result in peculiar and exceptional practical difficulties in developing the lot," said board member Norman Williams.

Application Denied. In a final action, the board denied the application of Blimpie Base, Inc. of Newark, which wanted to install a standup luncheonette at 25 Witherspoon Street, for failing to appear.

In February, the applicant had sought a waiver of 15 off-street parking spaces but was ordered to appear again last week before its case could be heard because it had failed to notify properly one of the property owners within 200 feet.

REGISTEH YIELDS $67.77

At Jack & Jill. The Jack & Jill store at 259 Nassau Street was entered by a thief this week who took $67.77 from a cash register. The theft was reported at 9 o'clock Tuesday morning by manager Brian Henninger.

According to Sgt. Ralph Procaccino, who investigated, the intruder climbed the roof, removed and broke a 2 by 4-foot skylight above a bathroom and apparently lowered himself some 20 feet to the floor. Police think that he must have exited the same way because the manager reported that both doors were equipped with dead locks. No rope was found, however.

CYCLIST, CAR COLLIDE

In Intersection. A 14-year old cyclist and a car collided last Wednesday at 5 p.m. at the intersection of N. Harrison Street and Hamilton Avenue.

The cyclist, David J. Marcantonio, 88 Valley Road, later came to headquarters - with his parents where he complained of a sore thigh. There were no charges against the driver, Mrs. Annie Rost, 50, 644 Kingston Road. There was no police investigation at the scene.

In his report, Sgt. Ralph Procaccino quoted the youth as saying; "I was going too fast. I saw the car start to turn. I could not stop in time." Young Marcantonio ran into the side of the Rost car which was turning left from Harrison onto Hamilton.

FIVE ARE FINED

For Careless Driving. Five Princeton area residents were fined Monday by Judge Philip Carchman in Borough Court for careless driving.

Bruce G. Piper, 17, 41 Wittmer Court and John P. Costas, 17, 130 Washington Road, each paid $30. Fined $20 each were William W. Richardson, 19, 1 Courtney Drive, Princeton Junction; David A. Gayley, 18, 6 Steele Drive, Cranbury; and Annie B. Taylor, 70, 193 Laurel Circle.

Deborah Page, 23, 7 Leigh Avenue, was fined $210 for driving while on a revoked list. Fined for speeding were Judith A. Schwartzstein, 15 Murray Place, $22; Marion B. Baloulis, 40, 39 Castle Howard Court, $20; and Bastiaav Oskam, 24, 218B Harrison Street, $20. A red light violation cost Alan M. Lopez, Box 507, Princeton, $20.

Mercer Hill Associates Organized to Enhance Appeal of Neighborhood in Surrounding Area

Increased interest by historians and preservationists in the Mercer-Alexander-Edgehill-Stockton streets section of Princeton has resulted in a new name for the area and a 120-member neighborhood association.

Objectives of the Mercer Hill Associates are to preserve and protect the individual dwellings and the character and ambience of the neighborhood, as well as to foster the concept that, because of its special architectural and historic interest, its residents have the unique obligation of custodians and trustees for posterity. The organization also exists to monitor town, business and institutional planning that may affect the area and to help communicate its needs or opinions to governments or other bodies, while enabling them to share its thinking in turn.

An executive committee consists of: Arthur Y. Allen, chairman; Rensselaer W. Lee, vice-chairman; Mrs. James C. Sayen, secretary; Mrs. Minot C. Morgan, Jr., membership secretary; Mrs. Richard C. Flournoy, treasurer; J. Douglas Brown and Lewis B. Cuyler.

Mr. Lee, retired Chairman, Department of Art and Archaeology, Princeton University, and a resident of the neighborhood, has described it as a "resume of New Jersey architectural history since the early 18th century." It includes a number of pre-Revolutionary structures, including "The Barracks," built by the Stockton family and so named because of frequent billetings during the Revolution—the battle of Princeton was fought a few hundred yards away.

There are a broad variety of 18th and 19th century frame buildings, including many by the architect-developer, Charles Steadman. Later 19th century architects such as Richard Morris Hunt are represented as well. Over the years, Albert Einstein, T.S. Eliot, Woodrow Wilson and Thomas Mann have lived here.

The neighborhood embraces not only a long period in time and a broad range of building styles but also various walks of life. Elegant town houses exist together with simpler homes built for tradespeople and workers.

At one time, the area at the bottom of Mercer Street, around Edgehill and Hibben was known as Frog Hollow. It held many of the stables for the town's people, as well as housing for the stable-hands, at the turn of the century. It eventually declined in appearance but its transformation, now, into one of Princeton's most charming residential areas, is ample testimony to the accomplishments of community concern, preservation and restoration.

The Associates are involved in several current projects. The most formidable undertaking is a standardized written and pictorial inventory of the more than 90 buildings in this section, to include architectural and historical information, old and current photographs, and transcribed recollections of certain older people in town. Among other projects is a "traffic watch" planned for late spring to curb speeding and illegal truck traffic.

The Associates report that they will be glad to supply help and information to any other neighborhoods interested in establishing themselves with similar goals.

Mercer Hill, as its residents now simply refer to their neighborhood, is being featured by the Princeton Historical Society on its Candlelight Walking Tour this Sunday. (See page 37.)

TOWN TOPICS is delivered without charge to every home in Princeton Borough and Township and to part or all of West Windsor, Lawrence, Hopewell, Montgomery, South Brunswick and Franklin Townships and Griggstown. At all newsstands, including TOWN TOPICS' office. It costs 15c.

BOOKS STILL WELCOMED

For Bryn Mawr Sale. The 43rd annual Bryn Mawr Book Sale will begin Wednesday, May 1. Plans for the event were announced at a recent meeting of the Princeton Bryn Mawr Club by Mrs. James C. Crimmins, the club president, and Mrs. J. Thomas James, director of this year's sale. Once again the gymnasium behind Princeton Borough Hall will be the scene of this benefit which provides scholarship money for local girls attending Bryn Mawr College.

Featuring used books of all kinds, records, and prints donated by local residents, the sale is scheduled to begin at noon on May 1, to continue from 9 to 9 on May 2 and 3 and to close at noon on Saturday, May 4. The children's night (for children only) will be repeated this year on Tuesday, April 30, from 6 to 8 p.m.

Those who would like to give books to the Club for the 1974 sale may bring them to the warehouse at 55 Patton Avenue, Mondays and Wednesdays from 10 a.m. to noon, during all of April, and also on Sunday, April 7, and April 21, from 2 to 4.

Every type of second-hand book is accepted and sold at the sale. This year's donations include rare books, fine bindings, out-of-print publications and encyclopedias.

SUSSMAN MAY RUN

For Congress. Oscar Sussman, embattled Princeton veterinarian who made news last year when he drove the cockroaches out of state institutions, announced this week that he may run for Congress in the Fifth District as an independent if enough people want him to. (See advertisement, page 15)

As Director of Consumer Health Services for the state, Dr. Sussman turned over a lot of old equipment in state institutions and invited New Jerseyans to watch the rats, mice and roaches scurry for cover. His inspections brought down official displeasure on his head: Governor William T. Cahill called him a "publicity seeker" and the former State Commissioner of Health ordered him to "stop rocking the boat."

"Although high government officials attempted to silence me, unhealthy conditions were exposed and eliminated," Dr. Sussman said in a statement this week, "I also was able to point out the wasteful spending of taxpayers' funds . . . I believe one effective answer to Watergate, corrupt public officials and the old closed-door politics is for independent-minded citizens of proven ability and integrity to run for public office."

"I am tired of having my politicians bought for me by Fat Cats who tell them how to vote and what to do for, or to, you and me . . . I have no organization, no campaign slush-fund and would have to resign my position as Director of Consumer Health Services. I am considering it, but I need your help. I need some answers before I decide."

Dr. Sussman, who lives and practices on State Road, holds a master's degree in public health from Yale's School of Medicine and a Juris Doctor degree from the Seton Hall School of Law. His veterinarian degree is from Michigan State.

No arrangement can exceed 18" in any direction. For additional information concerning the Artistic entries, call Mrs. Henry Savage, 924-1444.

RITTS FAMILY ON TV

Sesame Street. Commercials. If you look at the right channel at the right time, you are likely to see quite a few television films produced by the Ritts family of Princeton.

Filmmaker Mark Ritts, of Lakeview Terrace, along with his wife, Nina, has produced, directed and filmed a short work entitled "Piano Practice" that will appear on Public Television's "Sesame Street" next Tuesday at 4 on Channels 13 and 52.

The vignette traces a young girl's progress as she learns to play the piano, and features five girls from the Princeton area—who, in the Ritts' eyes bear sufficient resemblance to each other that viewers can accept them as just one girl growing up. The five are Suzy Dwyer, 3, of Lawrenceville; Wendy White, 7, of Princeton; Catherine Langridge, 8, of Princeton; Jennifer Dutton, 11, of Ringoes; and Roberta Nelson, 17, a Princeton High School junior.

The other Ritts work currently appearing on television required no amateur actors from this area. But it does feature the antics of the Ritts puppets, created and operated by Mark's parents, Paul and Mary Ritts of Van Dyke Road.

Ritts puppets are in a series of 13 public service commercials filmed by Mark Ritts for the Council of Better Business Bureaus, Inc., and the NBC television network. The commercials are aimed at making children from 6 to 12 more aware of their roles and responsibilities as consumers. The spots are shown during NBC's shows for children, mostly on Saturday mornings.

On Location—Here. All of the consumer commercials were filmed in the Princeton area. At the Toy Carousel in the Princeton Shopping Center, for example, with a backdrop of toys and other child tempters, the Abominable Snowman explains to the youthful viewers: "Did you know that you are the boss of your money? That's a special thing!"

In the Ritts backyard on Van Dyke Road, Magnolia the Ostrich grills Geoffrey the Giraffe on why he wants to borrow 50 cents. The message that follows is: "You wouldn't have trouble if you spent your money on what it was meant for."

Also in the economic vein, Flammable Flamingo cautions the Abominable Snowman, who is browsing through comic books at the Center Stationers in the Princeton Shopping Center. "It isn't yours until you buy it," says Flammable.

Magnolia the Ostrich is speeding along in a sports car, filmed on the ETS campus on Rosedale Road, when she discovers she has been shortchanged 50 miles back. Geoffrey the Giraffe has the final word: "As my mother used to say, 'Always count your change'."

Diet Questions. Meat and vegetables vs. cake and cookies is the question for Albert the Chipmunk and Geoffrey the Giraffe to resolve in a diet segment filmed at the A & P supermarket in the Shopping Center. In another 30-second commercial, the Abominable Snowman says: "Lunch is my favorite class."

Seven of the Ritts commercials are now on the air. Six more are nearing completion in the film laboratory. Others will deal with care of personal possessions, saving as an alternative to spending, and choosing what to spend money for. Ritts puppets have also appeared in various NBC-TV series and specials, including "The Pink Panther Show," "Watch Your Child," and "For the Love of Fred."

In "Piano Practice," the film being aired next Tuesday, Mark's wife, Nina, an accomplished pianist, dubbed the musical soundtrack for the film.

As the film begins, a toddler is shown banging away on the piano keyboard. Through a series of dissolves and other transitions, the child becomes "older and older", and the music she is playing becomes more and more advanced—from Chopsticks to a complicated Chopin finale. In the final shot, the camera zooms back to reveal that the girl—now a teenager—is performing in a school auditorium before her classmates.

ANNUAL DINNER SET

By YWCA. The annual dinner meeting of the YWCA, sponsored by the Volunteer Committee, will be held on Thursday, April 4 at 7 at the YWCA. Mrs. Judy O'Brien, chairman of the dinner, has announced that the guest speaker will be Dr. Cynthia C. Wedel, associate director of the Center for a Volunteer Society and National Chairman of Volunteers for the American Red Cross.

Dr. Wedel, who has held staff positions in the Episcopal Church and the National Council of Churches, as well as having been appointed by President Kennedy to the first Commission on the Status of Women in 1961, will speak on the importance of volunteerism in today's world.

Entertainment during dinner will be provided by Caroline Mosely of the YWCA teaching staff, who will sing folk songs and play the guitar. Reservations at $4.50 per person may be made at the YWCA office.

DO AS I SAY...Geoffrey, the Giraffe, chides Albert, the Chipmunk, for wasting electricity in a scene from a series of public service television commercials for children that were produced in Princeton. The puppets are those of Paul and Mary Ritts of Van Dyke Road. The commercials were filmed by their son, Mark, of Lakeview Terrace. The spots, produced by the Council of Better Business Bureaus and NBC Television, urge children from 6 to 12 to be better, more informed consumers. They are appearing during NBC children's programs.

This is the first in a series of periodic reports on the progress of the Mercer County Charter Study Commission's review of the existing county government structure in Mercer. The reports are being prepared by Edward F. Meara III, chairman of the commission.

COMMISSION IS ACTIVE

In Studying County Government. Despite the absence of statutory authority to alter the structure of county government, constant changes have been made to improve the efficiency with which it operates in Mercer County.

The Mercer County Charter Study Commission, which is making a comprehensive review of county government, reports that most of these changes have taken place in the last six or seven years.

The Commission is charged with the responsibility of determining whether (and what) structural changes would improve the effectiveness of Mercer County government. The voters ultimately will decide whether to make any change at all.

According to Commission research, Mercer County's departmental structure was reorganized in 1967 and the director of the Board of Freeholders became a member of all Freeholder committees, and was given expanded administrative responsibilities.

This reorganization, followed by the creation of the position of County Administrator in 1968, was designed to provide greater coordination of the numerous separate agencies in Mercer County and to upgrade the operation of county government.

In 1974, county departments and related Freeholder committees were reorganized into the following present groupings: community affairs, correctional institutions, finance and revenue, health and welfare, planning and economic development, and public works and buildings.

But until the enactment of New Jersey's "Optional County Charter Law," the county was unable to consider actual structural changes that might improve the effectiveness and efficiency of its government.

There are certain areas in which the Freeholders have little or no freedom to change policy unless the county officials in charge of those areas consent.

In the court system, for example, officials are appointed by the State. There are various autonomous and semi-autonomous agencies, commissions or boards. For example, the Mercer County Library Commission is unique in that it has its own dedicated tax.

Though Mercer County has a county administrator, the position does not carry strong policy-making or appointive powers, comparable to those that might be given to a manager under new forms of government available through the "Optional County Charter Law."

The nine-member Charter Study Commission, elected last November, is reviewing all aspects of the present structure of county government to determine whether a new form of government or some structural change would improve the performance, as well as the effectiveness of county government. The Commission must issue a report of recommendations in August and submit any prospective change to the voters.

Commission members are: Edward F. Meara III, chairman, Nancy H. Schluter, vice chairman, Robert R. Klein, W. Harry Sayen, Gerald R. Stockman, Edward P. Lisiecki Jr., Leonard D. Dileo, Catherine L. McGrath and Mary Ann Golden.

ATTACKS COUNTY STUDY

Farrington Makes Charges. Charles Farrington, Mercer County Freeholder, charged last week that the Mercer County Charter Study Commission has already made up its mind to recommend a change in the form of Mercer's government.

He said that Synetics Inc., the Commission's consultant, feels obliged to recommend a change in the form of government because of the $50,000 fee Synetics is being paid to help the Commissioners in their study.

"It is not necessary to change the form of county government," Freeholder Farrington said, "the ability of the people, not the structure, is the important factor.

Edward Meara III, chairman of the Commission said that Mr. Farrington's charges were "ridiculous." "The Commission has always made it clear," he said, "that we have made no decisions. Just because we were elected to study county government doesn't mean we feel a change is mandated."

Selling in all departments will be held in the two-day period April 23 and 24 from 9:30 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. There is parking for customers adjacent to the Club. All proceeds benefit the Princeton Medical Center.

ARBOR DAY SATURDAY

In West Windsor. A politician and a landscaper will be the featured speakers at the third annual Arbor Day Program in West Windsor Saturday at 10. Sponsored by the Recreation Commission, the trees and shrubs will be planted on barren township property on the Hightstown Road across from the high school.

The politician, Township Committeeman Peter Flatow, will begin the ceremony by discussion the meaning of Arbor Day. This is the 102nd anniversary of Arbor Day since it was first held in Nebraska. Today, almost all of the 50 states have set aside a special day to encourage people to plant terees and shrubs.

The landscaper, John Obal of Obal's Garden Mart, will describe his landscape plan, which he donated to the township, and tell how it promotes the continuing theme of Arbor Day - "protect and beautify homes as well as for future sawtimber, windbreaks, fuel wood, fence posts and other forest products."

Thereafter, numerous groups from the township, representing Cubs, Brownies, Girl and Boy Scouts, 4-H Clubs, the P.T.A., the Garden Club, a nursery school and the Lions Club will begin planting the numerous trees and shrubs that they have donated to the program. Among the numerous varieties of trees to be planted near the white pines and pin oaks that RCA presented to the township are crabapples, hollies, dogwoods, hemlocks, rhododendrons, yews and roses.

GUESS WHO'S COMING: W. Harry Sayen, right, has named Robert Ricciani of Hamilton Township and Margaret Donelly of Lawrenceville to head the Annual Fund Raising Dinner of the Mercer County Republican Organization, Thursday, April 25, at the Cedar Garden Restaurant in Hamilton Township. The headline speaker has not been announced yet, but officials promise it will be someone of "national prominence."

REED TO HELP BOHEN

Campaign Director Named. Ingrid Reed, 548 Alexander Road, West Windsor has been named campaign chairman for Fred Bohen, candidate for the Democratic Congressional nomination in the Fifth District, of which Princeton and West Windsor are part.

"Every aspect of my campaign will benefit from Ingrid Reed's knowledge, experience and human sensibilities," the candidate declared, in making the announcement.

Ingrid Reed

Mrs. Reed is a member of the Mercer County Planning Board. She was an unsuccessful candidate for West Windsor Township Committee in 1971, and has since run Democratic campaigns in West Windsor that have brought the township its first Democratic majority in history. West Windsor is, traditionally, a Republican area.

Mrs. Reed is a newly-elected member of the Stony Brook-Millstone Watershed Association, and heads the Princeton area League of Women Voters land-use study. She has worked at the Life Insurance Association of America and at Educational Testing Service.

Candidate Bohen has established headquarters in Somerville. Among elected officials in his "Democrats for Bohen" organization are Princeton Township Mayor Jay Bleiman; West Windsor Mayor William Stuart; Princeton Township Committee member Margaret Broadwater and Borough Council member Barbara Sigmund.

SIX HOMES ON VIEW

To Show Changes Effected. Six houses with a new lease on life will be featured in the biennial "Open House in Princeton" tour sponsored by the Princeton-Trenton Mount Holyoke Club, Saturday, April 27. Focusing this year on "Additions and Transformations," the tour will feature traditional houses which have undergone renovations ranging from restoration of authentic period details to additions of highly-contrasting modern design.

The tour is scheduled from 12:30 to 5. Tickets, at a tax-deductible $6, go on sale next week at Hinkson's and the University Store. They may also be ordered by mail from Mrs. W. A. Morton, 52 Western Way.

Five of the houses are in Princeton and the sixth is on the grounds of the Lawrenceville School. Open to the public will be the homes of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Y. Allen, 40 Mercer Street; Dr. and Mrs. Paul Benacerraf, 120 Broadmead; Mr. and Mrs. Albert C. Barclay Jr., 77 Adams Drive; Mrs. Sara T. Davies, 13 Edgehill Street; Mr. and Mrs. Elwood W. Phares II, 72 Arreton Road; and Mrs. Frank Heyniger, the Lawrenceville School campus. Light refreshments will be available at the Davies house.

Mrs. Leonard Etz, Princeton-Kingston Road, Princeton, is chairman of the 1974 house tour, aided by Mrs. Danforth A. Hall, 290 Stockton Street, hospitality; Mrs. Sydney Harwood II, Cherry Valley Road, supplies; Mrs. Morton as treasurer; Mrs. Thomas Page, 2549 Main Street, Lawrenceville, posters; Mrs. Jacqueline Pellaton, 40 Wiggins Street, publicity; Mrs. Robert D. Reed, Pin Oak Road, Skillman; brochure; Mrs. Donald P. Shaffer, Belle Mead, hostesses; Miss Esther Todd, 275 Herrontown Road, mailing; and Mrs. Robert A. Winters, 10 Adams Drive, patrons.

The event supports the development fund of Mount Holyoke College.

Clean Up (?)

The Township will (will not) continue Clean-up Week into next week. Trucks may (may not) come around to your street again for the household and yard debris classically collected each spring and fall during Clean-up week (which is this week).

The ambiguity? It's been a rainy spring, and Township Committee members haven't been able to get out into muddy yards to rake up the twigs. Neither have a lot of other people in the Township. Therefore, says Committee firmly, let's announce an extension of Clean-up week.

But Township Engineer Joseph Hodak balks. In a quiet, unpublicized way, his trucks have always picked up debris after Clean-up Week has passed. He's afraid, if an extension is formally announced, that householders will take advantage, and spend week-ends in front of the television set when they should be out, raking.

VACATION PROGRAMS

For Children at Library. The Princeton Public Library has scheduled programs for children of all ages during the Regional Schools' spring vacation. On Monday at 2:30, Mrs. Dudley Carlson, Children's Librarian, will hold a story hour for children ages 6-14. No registration is necessary. There will be a Treasure Hunt in the children's room on Tuesday at 10:30. Attendance is limited to 35 children, ages 6 through 12 may register at the Children's Desk.

"For the Love of Fred," a 48-minute film, will be shown on Wednesday at 10 and at 3. Paul and Mary Ritts will be at both performances with the puppets, who are the stars of the film. Tickets are available at the children's desk on first-come, first-served basis.

At 3 on Thursday, April 11, Kenneth Glucksberg will give a program with his puppets for pre-school aged children and parents. No registration is required.

GRAND OPENING SET

For Jersey Savings and Loan. Princeton area residents will be able to enjoy the music of the world famous Caballeros Marching Band Saturday as part of the grand opening celebration of First Jersey Savings & Loan Association's new office in the Princeton Shopping Center.

Organized in 1946, the "Cabs" have long been known for their unique Latin style of music. They have won many competitive victories and recently were awarded the Drum Corps Associates World Championship for the third time.

Last year, the Caballeros accomplished what had previously been considered impossible. They became the first Drum Corps Associate member to achieve an undefeated season, the first corps to win three World Championships and the first to win that title twice in succession.

The Caballeros are scheduled to perform at 10:30 and 11:15 on Saturday morning, outside the office of First Jersey Savings, at the southwest corner of the shopping center, near the Acme.

First Jersey Savings will mark the occasion by giving away free savings accounts up to $500 to the first 1,000 adults who attend the grand opening celebration. A large selection of gifts for new accounts will be offered and visitors will be invited to participate in a drawing for a color television set and a number of other prizes, including a mini-grandfather clock.

The celebration will begin at 9 and run until 4.

Mr. Short, soon after receiving a Master of Fine Arts degree from Princeton in 1952, worked for Frank Lloyd Wright as clerk of the works during the construction of the Solomon R. Guggenheim Museum in New York City. His recent projects in Princeton include the restoration of Guernsey Hall and its conversion into an apartment condominium; the Princeton Community Housing Project in the architectural association of Agle, Short and Holt-Morgan-Schwartz, P.A.; and the housing authority project for the elderly, Lloyd Terrace, with Charles Agle, Architect, which was given a Merit Award from the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development in 1968.

Among a number of residential projects, the addition for the James Thorntons on Lovers Lane received an Award of Merit from the AIA Homes for Better Living Awards Program in 1973.

Current projects include a variety of residential commissions, an office and industrial building for The MAARK Corporation in South Brunswick, interiors and supervision of construction for a new library in Rocky Hill, a sculpture studio for J. Schools Holidays Questioned.
To the Editor of Town Topics:

According to TOWN TOPICS, Dr. McPherson in discussing the school calendar "urged the Board to forget religious holidays and schedule spring vacation so that it comes equidistant from the winter recess and the end of school." Apart from what this might do to Good Friday, it is time that area school authorities showed more concern for the sizable Jewish minority residing in their midst.

Because Passover is determined by a lunar calendar, it usually occurs close to Easter. With a little foresight the spring recess can overlap the week of Passover as it often has in the past. This not only facilitates attendance at religious services, but also eases the problems of observance of special dietary restrictions. Since school lunchrooms and other public eating places are not able to meet these needs, it is simpler all around if children can eat at home during this period.

We have more than enough innovations in our schools. Do we have to innovate with our holidays, too?

The People Say Thanks.
To the Editor of Town Topics:

All of the people who have contributed in so many ways to the Princeton People's Yellow Pages would like to thank TOWN TOPICS for its excellent placement of last week's article announcing PPYP's publication.

As a nonprofit community service on a shoe-string budget, PPYP has to depend heavily on good press coverage and word-of-mouth advertising. PPYP is being received enthusiastically, and we feel certain that your continued support throughout PPYP's development has played a large part in its success.

Sports Coverage Questioned.
To the Editor of Town Topics:

I have become concerned during the past few years, as I followed my daughter's progress in tennis, over the lack of coverage of women's tennis at the Junior level in your paper. Last week's article on the fine men's tennis team at the high school and their prospects for a good season beginning with the Metuchen match with no mention of a girls' team prompts me to write this letter. The high school girls' team has also had a good record, they also have ranking players, they also spend many hours in practice and train hard and also look forward to a good year with Metuchen as a formidable first encounter.

If girl and women athletes are to be encouraged aren't their efforts worthy of mention? I can easily see how lack of appreciation would lead them to feel that prestige is given only to the men's teams and that only by "cracking" them could they feel self esteem—a sad thing for women's tennis, or any other sport.

I know that Princeton has many women tennis players and I am sure that they, as well as the parents of the participants, would like news on how the girls' teams are doing.

To the Editor of Town Topics:

PHS WINS BIG

In Track Opener. Sweeping four events, the Princeton High School track team overpowered visiting St. Anthony, 90½-40½, Monday in its season's opener.

PHS coach Marc Anderson, making his debut as head coach, said that he was very happy with the score but he tempered this by adding, "I'm not sure how indicative it is. The times were not that fast and I'm hoping it was due to the poor track conditions as much as anything else." But he reflected, "Anytime you beat a team by 50 points, you've got to have something."

The Little Tigers will entertain a strong Bridgewater-Raritan team Thursday at 3:45 and then participate in Saturday's Mercer County Relays. The latter will be held at Ewing at 1:30 and will be an early indication of how PHS should fare against the stronger county schools this spring.

McLean Triple Winner. Junior Mark McLean was the top point-getter against St. Anthony, winning three events and placing second in a fourth. He won the pole vault, 330-yard intermediate hurdles—a new event this year—and led a sweep in the high hurdles, coming in ahead of teammates Paul Campbell and Scott Bruno.

He placed second in the high jump, which was won by sophomore Fred Berkelhammer with a leap of 5-10. Eric Ziolkowski, another sophomore, was third.

Freddie Wilson won two events—the 100 and 440, the latter in 52.8—"good time considering the track conditions" said Anderson. Wilson missed a third "first" when he got bumped in the 220, almost fell and recovered for second place.

Steve Roderick led a PHS sweep of the 880 followed by Morgan Snyder and Mike Clohossey, and John Woodside, the Blue and White's premier miler, led a sweep of the mile. Royce Flippin was second, Mike Bolster third. Pete Nichols and Tim Anderson finished 1-2 in the two mile, as PHS, as expected, dominated the longer races.

In the weight events where PHS is weaker, sophomore Tom Bart captured seconds in both the shot and discus. His toss of 43 feet in the shot was his best ever by 2½ feet. Dave Gilbert placed second in the javelin.

METUCHEN POOR HOST

Stop PHS Netmen, 4-1. Metuchen spoiled Princeton High School's opening tennis match of the season on Monday when it defeated the visiting Little Tigers, 4-1.

Coach Bill Humes said later that he was not surprised by the loss, recalling that Metuchen had upset PHS last year, 3½ to 1½, with a team that returned intact this spring. Princeton's lone victory came in the number two doubles captured by senior Kevin Little and sophomore Dan Ameral.

Brothers Phil and Steve Ebersole lost the number one doubles.

In singles play, freshman Andre Eichenberger, playing number one, lost, 6-4, 6-4. Sophomore Dan Aronovic dropped the closest fought match of the day, losing the number two singles, 7-5, 7-6, while another sophomore, Dan Schulman, sustained a 6-4, 6-2 setback in the number three singles.

"Metuchen is an experienced club," said Humes, who added that he expected his own squad to do better aginst Mercer County schools.

bookings for the first quarter at Princeton Applied Research Corp., of 7 Roszel Road, will be up over those of the first quarter, 1973. Although final results will not be reported until April 30, President O. C. Chaykowsky said he expected net sales to be up 25 percent and new order bookings up 40 percent.

Mr. Chaykowdky stated, however, that both bookings and sales in the first quarter last year were substantially below the average quarterly rate based on the full year. The preliminary percentage increases being reported for the first quarter, 1974, therefore are relative to a low base period in 1973. No estimate of income for the quarter was made.

At the March 30 annual meeting of the Corporation's stockholders, the current directors were re-elected for the new year, and the PARC Stock Option Plan and the PARC Employee Stock Purchase Plan were both approved. The Board of Directors then re-appointed all incumbent officers and also named Dr. Jud B. Flato a vice president of the Company. He is Division Manager of the Analytical Instrument Division.

Princeton Applied Research also reported that it is negotiating for the possible sale of SSR Instruments Company, PARC's wholly owned subsidiary in Santa Monica, Calif.

SALES STAFF INCREASED

By John T. Henderson. John T. Henderson, Inc., Princeton realtor, has announced the addition of Mrs. Lois Tegarden of 25 Edwards Place to the firm as a sales associate.

Mrs. Tegarden is involved in numerous charitable and social activities in the area. A founder of the Unitarian Ministers' Wives' Newsletter, she serves on the scholarship committee of Brown University, is a member of Princeton Women's Squash Racquet Association and of Trinity Church Choir.

She is an active member of the Junior League of Trenton, a substitute teacher in the Princeton Regional Schools and a volunteer at Princeton House.

Mrs. Tegarden also currently serving on the Election Board of Mercer County, will be headquartered in Henderson's Princeton office at 353 Nassau Street.

To the Editor of Town Topics:

At a time when educational costs are a matter of major concern for parents with even one child continuing his or her education beyond high school, the article on scholarships and loans in the most recent issue of TOWN TOPICS gives encouragement to all families that there are various ways by which the costs of education may be met. The article also informs other families, who may not have children of school age, and business concerns that they may make contributions to these very worthwhile funds, and that their gifts will be put to good use.

Two of these organizations are the Career Development Awards and the Rotary Foundation, both of which were created to assist high school graduates who are continuing their education in technical and vocational programs. The reader of the article in TOWN TOPICS might easily have inferred that competition exists between CDA and Rotary and that discussions are needed "to see how this overlap can be smoothed out." In fact, there is no competition but cooperation.

Since 1969, when CDA was organized, it has made scholarship grants to 63 students from Princeton, Montgomery, and West Windsor Townships. In 1973 alone there were 18 awards for a total of $12,500. These funds were comprised of gifts from the Princeton Youth Fund, as well as from corporations and individuals.

Complementing the CDA activities is the program of the Rotary Foundation which has provided repayable loans for nearly ten years to high school graduates who also are enrolling in technical and vocational programs of study. Those students who are granted CDA awards are also eligible for these Rotary loans. The awards of CDA and Rotary are made, not in a spirit of competition, but of cooperation. They are two separate programs that complement each other.

Since several Rotarians active in the Rotary Foundation are currently serving as either officers or members of the Board of CDA there is continual discussion between the two organizations. We hope these explanations will forestall any misinterpretations that might have been inferred from the excellent article on scholarships and loans in TOWN TOPICS.

PALM SERVICES SET

In Area Churches. Palm Sunday services in many area churches will mark the beginning of Holy Week, the most sacred week in the Christian calendar. Programs of worship, processions, meditations and music will help commemorate Christ's triumphal entry into Jerusalem nearly 2,000 years ago.

Dean Ernest Gordon will lead the 11 o'clock service at the Princeton University Chapel and deliver a sermon entitled "The Prince of Peace." Music by Bach will be performed by Susan Farmer, organ; Nadia Koutzen, violin; and Cecelia Rice, soloist.

At 4:45 on Palm Sunday the Aquinas Institute will hold its service, featuring the blessing and distribution of palms, and a solemn procession and Mass. It will be in the University Chapel.

Brief lunch hour services will be offered Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday and Good Friday beginning at 12:35 in the University Chapel. Programs of meditation and music will be led by members of the Chapel Fellowship on Monday and Tuesday; on Wednesday selections from "Pilgrim's Progress" will be presented by a Chapel graduate assistant, John Hare; and on Good Friday, the Assistant Dean of the Chapel, the Rev. Richard Chrisman, will officiate.

On Maundy Thursday the Last Supper will be enacted at a 9:15 service led by Dean Gordon and assisted by Mr. Chrisman.

Prince of Peace. Palm Sunday will be the time for the formal installation of the Rev. Frederick Schott as pastor of the Prince of Peace Lutheran Church. The Rev. Dr. Edwin Ehlers, President of the New Jersey Synod of the Lutheran Church in America, will officiate at the 10 o'clock service in the Maurice Hawk School on Clarksville Road, Princeton Junction.

Preaching will be the Rev. Lawrence E. Nelson, Associate Director of the Division for Parish Services in Philadelphia. Before accepting the call to Princeton Junction, Mr. Schott had been pastor of an inner-city church in Philadelphia. A reception will follow the service.

Witherspoon Street Presbyterian. The Women's Association of the Witherspoon Street Presbyterian Church will hold its annual Palm Sunday Tea in the Fellowship Hall from 4 to 7. The United Voices of Princeton will present a program in song at 5. Mrs. Sarah Harris is president and Mrs. Sadie Ray is chairman of this program.

A Palm Sunday Communion service will be held at 8:45 a.m. at Witherspoon Street Presbyterian. The Communion fellowship will be in a contemporary setting, with the elements shared by participants around the Communion table. Visitors are welcome.

Nassau Presbyterian. The series of Thursday Lenten services will conclude this week at 12:10 in the Palmer Square Sanctuary of Nassau Presbyterian Church. The Rev. Floyd N. Rhodes Jr., pastor of the Witherspoon Street church, will preach. A lunch will be served from 12:30 to 1.

Dr. John W. Meister, Interim Pastor, will preach at both Palm Sunday services. His topic: "The Mind of Christ: Witness."

Dutch Neck Presbyterian. The Rev. James S. Weaver will lead the 9:30 and 11 o'clock services at the First Presbyterian Church of Dutch Neck, and will preach on the topic, "Christ the Victor."

Morristown Presbyterian. Four graduates of Princeton's Westminster Choir College will participate in a Palm Sunday concert at 4 in the Presbyterian Church On-the-Green in Morristown. Robert McIver, of Princeton, will be the baritone singer; Catherine Payn, soprano; William A. Payn, director; and Hedley E. Yost, organist.

The program will feature Gabriel Faure's "Requiem" and "Cantique de Jean Racine;" and Harold Friedell's "Elegy for Violin, Harp and Organ."

ART, THEOLOGY UNITED

In Seminary Lectures. Artist-calligrapher Margaret R. Rigg and theologian Barbara Hall will present the combined L. P. Stone and Student Missions Lectures at Princeton Theological Seminary, April 15-18, President James I. McCord has announced. Their general topic will be "Power and the Visionary Experience: The Artist and a Theologian in Conversation."

Ms. Rigg will illustrate her three individual lectures with slides, her own work, examples of her students' writing and art and her two CBS-TV video tapes, "I Need to Hear from You" and "Keep in Touch." She will appear at 7:45 Monday, April 15; at 2 Tuesday; and at 1:30 Wednesday. The afternoon presentation on Tuesday is in connection with the Life of Jesus course directed by Seminary Professors John Christiaan Beker and Hugh T. Kerr.

Ms. Hall's lecture "Through a Glass Darkly," will be delivered on Wednesday, April 17, at 7:45. Joint presentations will be made on Tuesday and Thursday at 7:45. The entire series is open to the public, in the auditorium of the Seminary Campus Center.

Born in Chicago, he graduated from Princeton University in 1926. He was captain of the University golf team and won the Chicago District Golf Association Championship in 1923.

He competed as an amateur golfer for 30 years, entering the U.S. Amateur Tournament in the early '20s and competing in the British Amateur in 1952. He was a member of Pine Valley, Saint Andrews, Springdale and U.S. Seniors golf clubs.

Mr. Hack joined the Stock Exchange in 1934, and served on the Board of Governors from 1956 to 1962. He retired in 1972 as a partner in the brokerage firm of Laird, Bissell and Meeds. He also had a home in Delray Beach, Florida.

Surviving are his wife, Faith Severance Hackl; his son, George C.S. Hackl of Stockton; his daughter, Mrs. Donald H. Ward of Brielle; and six grandchildren.

The funeral was private under the direction of the Mather Funeral Home and a public memorial service was held in the Princeton University Chapel.

Contributions may be made to the Princeton Medical Center.

John Hopkins Kennedy, of Washington, D.C., formerly of Princeton, died March 29 in Georgetown Hospital following a stroke. He was Chief of Review for the Job Corps in the Labor Department's Manpower Administration.

Raised in Buffalo, he attended the Nichols Country Day School there and received his B.A. degree from Princeton University. He attended Yale University Law School and took his Ph.D. at Yale.

He then served in the Air Force in the European theater, returning to teach in the Department of History at Princeton University and later at Yale, where he was a Fellow of Trumbull College. After leaving Yale he entered Government work.

He served with Air Force Intelligence, and in 1956 received the Air Force Award for Exceptional Service, the highest departmental honor for a civilian. He was associated briefly with the Weapons Systems Evaluation Group.

He spent one year at the National War College and attended courses at Sandia, N.M.; the Air University, Maxwell Air Force Base; and the Special Forces School at Fort Bragg.

In early March of this year he received the Certificate of Performance Award from the Department of Labor.

Surviving are his wife, Hattie Wise; a son, Peter, both of 2932 New Mexico Avenue N.W., Washington; his mother, Agnes of Carroll Manor, Hyattsville, Maryland; and his brother, Kevin Kennedy of Princeton.

A memorial service for Mrs. Irene M. Roberts, who died March 24, will be held Saturday, April 20, at 3 p.m. in the Miller Chapel of the Princeton Theological Seminary. Mrs. Roberts lived in Princeton until October of last year. Contributions may be made to the Organ Fund of the First Church, Scientist, Bayard Lane; or to the Friday Club of the YWCA.

HUN NINE AT PDS

For Firday Opener. The Hun School baseball team will open its 1974 8-game schedule Friday afternoon at 3:30 at the Princeton Day School diamond.

Monday afternoon Hun will be at Ewing before its home opener Wednesday against Pennington. The latter will start at 2:30.

The biggest question mark facing Hun at the start of the season, commented coach Bill McQuade, was a lack of experienced pitching. Hun lost only three through graduation last year but one was Paul Creamer, its mound ace, who won ten and lost one. "It's going to be hard to pick up those ten wins," said McQuade.

Also gone is catcher Greg Rafalski, who led the team in just about every hitting department, and third baseman Scott Johnson. Unexpected were the premature departures of junior Kevin Rafalski, an infielder, who decided not to come out this season, and senior Biff Hollowell. Last year's regular first baseman, Hollowell decided to concentrate, McQuade reported, in working for a scholarship.

As a result, McQuade has five holes instead of the three he thought he had to fill. Heading the list of returning lettermen are Dave Clark, pitcher-outfielder, who had a 3-2 record on the mound last year, and centerfielder Dave Pone. They are co-captains of the team.

Others include the sure-handed Tony Trani at short, second baseman Lonnie Cathel, pitcher Jon Videbeck (1-0 last year), Bob McHugh, an outfielder with a good arm whom McQuade hopes to convert to a pitcher, and infielder Mark Schwartz. Junior Jeff Petrone, up from the jayvees, will be the replacement for Hollowell at first.

Promising Sophomores. In addition, McQuade has several promising sophomores on his squad. He is hopeful that Joe Herman, a product of the Princeton Babe Ruth league where he was a fine pitcher, will be able to work into the pitching rotation.

Football player Jack Purcelli is a prospect for catcher, while Tom Duncan, a basketball player, figures in McQuade's plans as a utility infielder and pitcher. Both Purcelli and Duncan are transfer students from Hamilton High School.

Another transfer student, Bruce LiSooey, fullback on the Hun eleven, is earmarked as a candidate for catcher or the outfield. Up from the jayvee squad are Paul Soderman, an outfielder and "a good ballplayer" says McQuade and Bob Rizzi, a third baseman. Both are sophomores. McQuade rates freshman Pete Sciabetta as a "good little catcher."

New Assistant Coach. McQuade, a former Princeton High School baseball captain and standout college player at Juniata, is starting his third year as head coach. He has a new assistant this season, Kemp Gregory, a former all-American pitcher in college in North Carolina. "He's working with the pitching staff and helping out a lot; he's making the load a lot easier," McQuade said.

McQuade's own record has been glittering. After a 13-3 mark his first year, he guided Hun to a 14-3 effort last spring, losing out to Lawrenceville in the state prep school championship game. Both years, Hun captured the Penn-Jersey League title.

"I think we have the hitting and defense from last year," he said. "Pitching is the big question mark. If we can convert McHugh and if Hermann, who is only a sophomore but has a lot of poise comes around, then I think we'll do all right.

It will be an untested team that takes to the field in the opener with PDS. Hun's only scheduled scrimmage against Montgomery High School was rained out Friday. At the start of the week before the opener, Hun had been outside for just two days of practice.

PHS vs. Lawrenceville

Its opening game rained out, the Princeton High School baseball team will oppose Lawrenceville School Thursday at 3:45 at the Larries diamond and then play host to Steinert Tuesday at 3:45.

Tuesday's opener with East Brunswick was scheduled to be played here this Wednesday afternoon, also at 3:45.

The tennis team's match with Trenton that was rained out was scheduled to be held this Wednesday at 3:30 at the PHS courts. After that, the team will be idle until April 17.

The lacrosse team was to play at Fair Lawn this Wednesday, after which, like the tennis team, it will be idle for spring vacation until the 17th.

Tour of 150-Year Old Steadman Homes Sunday Will Provide Intriguing Look at Town's Past

The stately homes of Princeton designed 150 years ago by architect-builder Charles Steadman, will open their gracious doors this Sunday during a 4-7 Candlelight Walking Tour which will benefit the Historical Society of Princeton.

Tickets, at $7.50, are on sale at Bainbridge House, 158 Nassau, and will be available at each house during the tour.

One of the homes on the Candlelight Tour, the grey-blue house at 36 Mercer Street owned by Mr. and Mrs. Minot C. ("Mike") Morgan Jr., has a particular and private interest because it is the house in which Mr. Morgan's father was born.

It hasn't been in the family all that time, however. Mr. Morgan found it on the market in the early 1950s, purchased the house in 1953, and brought it back into the Morgan family after an interval of 53 years.

"Steadman designed and built this house in 1833," says Mrs. Morgan, in rehearsal for the tour. "It was always right here, on this site. Some old houses have been moved around, you know."

"It was built for James Green, son of Ashbel Green who was president of the College of New Jersey—Princeton. The Greens were Morgan cousins. Mike's grandfather bought it, and Mike's father was born here. He was graduated from Princeton in 1896, then he spent two years at the Seminary, and he lived here all the time he was a student. The Harper family bought the place in 1900—and we bought it back 53 years later."

WELCOME: Mrs. Minot C. Morgan Jr. stands on the Greek Revival portico of her Steadman-designed house at 36 Mercer Street. The Doric columns and the leaf molding trim probably came from the standard patternbooks used by architect-builders in the early 19th century. The house is on the Candlelight Walking Tour sponsored by the Princeton Historical Society.

Plenty of Room. Asked how many rooms the house has, Mrs. Morgan gives a quick and explosive reply:

"Too many!"

Six bedrooms, four baths, an entrance hall, double living-room, dining-room and kitchen. And four working fireplaces, two upstairs, two down. "That's all the heat they had in those days, you know."

Like other Steadman houses, the Morgan house is frame-lined with brick.

"When we moved in, we had 55 electric outlets installed," Mrs. Morgan laughs, "and you should have heard that electrician! He had to bore through all that brick!"

Enter. Visitors on Sunday will enter through the Greek Revival portico, go through the front and rear living-rooms, the dining-room and the kitchen, and out the back door. The upstairs rooms will not be open to the public.

"This entrance hall is unusually wide for a Steadman house," Mrs. Morgan says. "I's say twice as wide as others you'll see. And it has this unusual arch, dividing the entry from the stair and the rear part of the hall. Isn't that a marvellous stairway for a bride? We've had four brides come down that stair, and toss their bouquets from it afterwards...."

The arch and all the woodwork are white. The hall and living rooms have rich blue walls.

"When we moved in, everything was painted black—everything! These beautiful old floors, all the woodwork...we put on four coats of white paint and cleaned all the black off the floorboards. See these boards? They still have the original square nails."

Detail-work. The entrance hall is lit by the original gas chandelier, now electrified but still a gas fixture in 1953. Above it is the original white-painted plaster rosette. Molded plaster corner blocks were inserted by the architect into the two top corners of the wooden door frame.

The parlor, with front windows on Mercer Street and side windows on an open porch, has the original black marble mantel. This is one of the few houses in which the mantel is unchanged. The earlier Morgans who lived here, had a black marble clock made to match the mantle, and when the house came back into the family in 1953, Mike Morgan's mother gave the clock to the couple as a house gift.

The 1833 house stopped at the south wall of the back living-room. Dining-room and modern kitchen and the two bedrooms above them were added on—nobody seems to know just when.

"But that added-on kitchen had the lowest sink!" Mrs. Morgan laughs at the recollection. "Women were little, in those days."

"The old kitchen was in the basement, you know. That fireplace where they cooked is still down there, all blocked in. It would be fun to dig it out sometime."

Last fall, in a freak windstorm, a giant tree in front of 36 and 40 Mercer, blew down and took with it a hand-carved wooden gutter from the side porch—probably an original detail, like others in the house.

Visitors to the Morgan home will find, among the many personal touches, the mahogany dining table set with Mrs. Morgan's heirloom collection of hobnail and Sandwich glass. She points out that this glass, now almost priceless, was only kitchenware in the early 19th-century.

Shaw Comedy, Concluding McCarter Repertory, Rated "Funny, Witty, Stylish" and "A Solid Hit"

"You Never Can Tell" is one of Bernard Shaw's least often performed comedies, and your reviewer went to the McCarter Theatre Company's production last Thursday with modest expectations. On the printed page the play seemed more silly than funny, more wordy than witty. Well, you never can tell.

Thanks to an inspired director and a gifted cast, with the support of an ingenious set designer and a creative costumer, this McCarter production is pure delight: funny, witty, stylish, in every way a solid hit..

"YNCT" is among other things a charming spoof of the well-made domestic farce of its time (1899) and as such is so intricately crafted that to tell the plot would take forever. Let us say it concerns a free-thinking English woman who left her hot-tempered, yacht-building husband 18 years ago and went with her three small children to live in Portugal and write bossy little books for the life-lorn.

As the play opens, she and her children—a handsome New-Woman type named Gloria, and a bracingly uninhibited pair of teen-aged twins named Philip and Dolly— have returned to England for a meeting with Father, whom wife remembers with hostility and children don't remember at all.

With the help of a romantic young dentist, an omniscient hotel waiter, a brace of barristers, and one staggering coincidence after another, the family is reunited for the final curtain, despite Father's having grown even worse-tempered through the years.

Shaw's Personal Viewpoint. Shaw, writing to a critic who called this a farce, protested that it was "a poem and a document, a sermon and a festival, all in one."

Shaw was a master of comedy structure, and his head was fuller of comic devices than Jonathan Winters' attic. He usually made his comic balloons carry heavy ideological freight, but here he is simply out to give us a good time, and the result is—silly, maybe. But a wise, shrewd playwright being silly is awesomely entertaining. (Note how each character is a barefaced extension of some aspect of the author's own brash, bossy, irreverent, over-intellectual, argumentative, secretly sentimental personality, so that the comedy as a whole is merciless self-caricature.)

Stephen Porter, one of America's best directors of literate, stylish comedy, has given loving attention to every moment and every movement of the play. It is fast—but not nervously-paced, the direction inventive without ever going against the play's grain or trying to score off the old author.

The casting is uncannily good. McCarter's own I.M. (Invariably Marvelous) Hobson excels again as the Jeeves-like waiter who hovers over this fighting family like a celestial referee, breaking every clinch with a serving of food or drink or philosophy. (There is heart in this comedy, too, and Hobson brings it out.) Ann McDonough was born to play the brash twin, Dolly, on the verge of lovely womanhood, forever asking rude and relevant questions; E.E. Norris, who has grown impressively as an actor since his under-graduate days at Theatre Intime, complements his impish twin with shatterproof aplomb.

A Dentist in Pain. Curt Dawson, as Valentine, the struggling young dentist whose teeth ache for daughter Gloria, pleased the first night audience and got his laughs,

IS THAT A DENTIST'S CHAIR?: And isn't that an oxygen tank in the background? In the foreground, ready for a little cavity work, is James Gallery as Fergus Crampton. Ann McDonough is Dorothy Clandon, and both are in Shaw's comedy, "You Never Can Tell," now at McCarter.

as they say. But in all nit-picking honesty, we found his accent or his acting style off-key here, at times; too contemporary; better suited to, say, "Stop the World I Want to Get Off." Small point.

Paddy Croft is amusingly cool and dry as the tract-writing mother, and Linda Carlson austerely sexy as Gloria the armor-plated creampuff.

As the father, James Gallery is suitably rude and lemon-mouthed until filial love sweetens him. (McCarterites will recall him as the widower in last year's "Loot.") Richard Woods has just the bearing and the stuffy-distinguished manner for an old family counselor. A real pro, that Woods.

As the waiter's son, now an overbearing attorney, McCarter veteran Clarence Felder unravels the tangled family threads at the last minute with imperious authority. Gordon Gray is a pleasant "second waiter," and D'Arcy Achziger a nice housemaid.

Bright Scenic Effects. Robert U. Taylor has provided three dazzling settings that change from one to another with astonishing ingenuity; and what a happy moment as lighted Japanese lanterns descend against a darkened sky to signal the start of the masked ball outside. Linda Fisher's costumes are always first-rate, but Shaw has given her and her elves a chance to shine here, and they do.

Again, our thanks to Prof. Daniel Seltzer, and his McCarter Board; and to Louis Criss, who as Artistic Director has presided over a memorable McCarter year.

"YNCT"—which continues this weekend—is great fun as it unfolds in one bravura scene after another. It has nothing to "tell" us, except that human beings working together can make a beautiful thing. Not a bad message, right now.

—William McCleery

ELECTRIC

(And Electronic). "Citizen Kong" is described by its promoters as "one of the most bizarre theatrical events the Jersey area has had to confront in some time." Confrontation will begin next Thursday, April 11, and will continue for that weekend and the next at Murray Theatre.

Theatre Intime, at 452-8181, will graciously accept reservations.

"Citizen Kong" is an electronic musical about electronic media. Director William Bowman is giving star billing to Eric Zwemer, who was the sinister Angelo in Intime's "Measure for Measure" last fall, and to Joseph Harbeson, who has been on Intime's stage in many productions since his first appearance three years ago in "Threepenny Opera."

Another performer is Jack D'Angelo, a newcomer with experience in the TV studios (he was once a loser on "The Dating Game"), and in musicals and straight drama. And Denise Seutter, James Mullins, David Loevner and Skip "Harry" Waters.

MOVEMENT STUDIES...

By Pilobulus. The repertoire of the Pilobulus company is a series of plotless "movement studies," based on balances, human pyramids, and gymnastics. The unique company will come to McCarter on Sunday, April 14, at 3 p.m.

The studies make extensive use of huddles of dancers, with arms, legs and heads shooting out at unexpected angles, and the "dancers" themselves, either rightside up, or upside down.

Originally a four-man ensemble composed of Dartmouth College graduates, Pilobulus now has two female members. The four founders—with academic specialties as diverse as mathematics, English, philosophy and art—met in Dartmouth's modern dance classes given by Alison Becker Chase. (She is now one of the two female members.)

The four had been active in athletics as teen-agers, and decided to combine athletics with dance and gymnastics.

"LITTLE PRINCE"

For Children. An adaptation of "The Little Prince" made by sixth, seventh and eighth grade students in Creative Theatre classes, will be presented by Creative Theatre Unlimited this Friday at 7:30 p.m. at Trinity Church. It will be given again this Saturday at 2 p.m.

The Antoine de Saint Exupery classic will be offered free of admission charge. It is recommended for children in the fifth through 12th grades, and for adults.

Members of the cast are Diane Barry, Valerie de Blois, Benjamin Dubrovsky, Daniel Durazo, Vicki Hebeler, Lisa Langmuir, Lori Levy, Carolyn Phinney, Hilary Pierce, Richard Taft, Jonathan Tenney, Jessie Webb and Leopold Zappler.

PLAYERS PAY A VISIT

To Players. Pennington Players will show "How the Other Half Loves," when they visit Princeton Community Players' regular monthly meeting this Sunday at 8:30 p.m. in the Little Theatre of the Unitarian Church.

Six actors from Pennington Players will present preview scenes from "How the Other Half Loves." the comedy they will present later in the spring. The Sunday meeting is open to the public. Three of the performers, Rene Beaumont,

Jean Delgado and Allan Salkin, have previously appeared in Princeton Community Players' production of "You Know I Can't Hear You When the Water's Running," the final offering of the season. Auditions---open to the public---will be held next Monday and Tuesday at 8 p.m. at the Little Theatre.

PRISONER?

"Of Second Avenue." Impossible neighbors, muggers and the other amenities of city life are explored with hilarity in Neil Simon's comedy, "The Prisoner of Second Avenue" which will play McCarter next Monday and Tuesday at 8:30 p.m.

Imogene Coca, famous alumna of Sid Caesar's "Show of Shows" on television, and her husband, King Donovan, will play the hapless and helpless couple. Mr. Donovan portrays a man who flips, under the combined pressures of urban life today.

When his family of three sisters and a brother---to say nothing of his wife----come to his aid, the proposed cure is almost worse than the disease.

SUMMER'S COMING!

"Open Air" Schedule Listed. Two historical shows that look toward 1976 will open the summer season at the Open Air Theatre, Washington Crossing State Park---on the New Jersey side.

"Crossing!" will open the festivities, with a world previere on June 20. It will play again June 21 and 22 and 27, 28 and 29.

Written by Theodore Kloos, musical director of the Neshaminy school district in Langhorne, Pa., "Crossing!" tells about Lt. James Monroe, age 18, assuming command of a tattered company, "C 3rd Virginia Regiment," as it is about to cross the Delaware. cross the Delaware.

lady who lives in New Hope, are all part of the plot. It is the same James Monroe, Mr. Kloos reminds us, who later became president.

The second show of the season (July 4, 5, 6) will be "Yankee Doodle Fought Here," a musical narrative with songs and events from Revolutionary War times. A narrator, actors and singers will provide the story line. Gordon Myers of Trenton State College, has assembled the show. He has received a state grant to tour the show in New Jersey starting in September of this year, and continuing through the 1976 Bicentennial.

Other shows on the Open Air program are "Brigadoon," the Lerner and Loewe musical, to be given by the Pennington Players; Shakespeares' "Measure for Measure," to be produced by Shakespeare '70; "The Apple Tree," a three-act musical by the Prevue Players: "Once Upon a Mattress," to be presented by Company Unlimited and for the final two weekends, the Lehar classic, "The Merry Widow" by the Princeton Opera Association.

New lighting equipment and improvements in the sound system are promised by Jack Rees, theatre manager.

WRITTEN A PLAY?

Contest Deadline Looms. Street Theatre's original script contest closes April 26, and a play must bear that postmark to compete in this year's contest.

The winners will be performed this summer during Street Theatre's summer season. Anyone, of any age, may submit a play on any subject. Writers should keep in mind that the play will be performed on a mobile stage.

Scripts should be mailed to Street Theatre, care of Debbie Bellow, 36 Stanley Avenue.

Triangle Show in May

"A Titter Ran Through the Audience," Princeton Triangle Club's 1974 musical, will be given at McCarter May 2-5, and tickets are now on sale at the box-office.

Milton Lyon is returning to direct his 15th Triangle Show, and Mr. Lyon's P.J. & B. associate, Joan Morton Lucas, will choreograph. After his Triangle assignment, Mr. Lyon will return to the Pittsburgh Civic Light Opera for his second season as director and conductor.

"A Titter Ran Through the Audience" is the 85th anniversary production for Triangle, and the traditional kickline will be celebrating its 85th, too.

CANADA, ITALY

In Two Films. French Canada and the Italy of Mussolini provide the background for two forthcoming films at McCarter.

"My Uncle Antoine," Claude Jutra's Canadian film, will be shown next Wednesday, April 10, at 8 p.m. "The Garden of the Finzi-Continis," the Vittorio de Sica 1972 Italian film, will be shown next Friday, April 12. It will have two showings: one at 7 p.m. and one at 9.

"Antoine" is set in a backwoods mining town in French Canada in the 1940s. The excitement of Christmas, the ebb and flow of life in a peaceful and happy family, the satisfactions of community are all protrayed by non-professional actors who are the actual residents of the village itself.

PRINCE

The Great Gatsby. No film since "The Godfather" has come along with more advance billing and ballyhoo than "The Great Gatsby," which has ushered in "The Gatsby Look" in the apparel industry.

Opulent—Paramount is said to have spent $8 million on its production—Gatsby is a visual 4-star success but as interesting drama—unlike "The Godfather"—it falls far short. No matter. People are already flocking to see it because for one thing it has Robert Redford, the hottest male star on the screen today, playing Gatsby, and it's the "in" film to see.

The film, directed by Jack Clayton, is long—two hours and 26 minutes; longer than it takes one to read F. Scott Fitzgerald's classic depiction of the rich in the Jazz Age. Clayton tries to follow Fitzgerald's devasting portrayal of the boredom and ennui to the letter and in so doing, his film is boring. It has no spark, no life, only mood.

Both Redford and Mia Farrow as Daisy Buchanan, the girl Gatsby once loved, and still does with a naive obsession, are miscast. Gatsby is a midwesterner, who made his fortune in the rackets and wants desperately to be accepted by Daisy and her crowd. Redford with his classic good looks, looks as if he attended Yale and was born to life on the Eastern Shore of Long Island.

Mis Farrow is dainty and attractive to look at, like a piece of Dresden China but devoid of any smouldering appeal. With her mousy voice, it is hard to believe that Gatsby would devote his life to pursuing her.

It is the supporting characters who breathe what little life there is into the film, especially Karen Black as Myrtle, the mistress of Daisy's husband, and Scott Wilson as Myrtle's cockolded husband. When they are cut, they bleed; when they are hurt by life, they react—unlike the cold, lifeless Buchanans.

Reading Fitzgerald's book, one puts it down and says, yes, that's the way it must have been to be rich and live in a mansion on Long Island. One can see it clearly in the mind's eye. Clayton has tried to act as a mind's eye for all of us. Unfortunately, his faithful but humorless, cold, rigid interpretation leaves one unsatisfied. Even worse, uncaring.

MONTGOMERY

McQ. John Wayne has traded in his six guns and chaps for a police special and conservative suit of a Seattle detective in this slick, contemporary action flick--much along the lines nf a good-bad cop saga.

Wayne fans will be enthralled, for the Duke is in fine fnrm delivering some choice tough-cop lingo in deadpan style, although they may be less than enthralled by the action. Lumbering around with justice on his side, gravel in his voice and hell-bent on avenging the death of his partner, Wayne is unaware that his partner killed two cops (well conveyed in the opening scenes) before being gunned down. Told by a superior officer (Eddie Albert) to concentrate on rounding up young radicals, Wayne slams down his badge and goes to work on his own.

Before Wayne finally comes to realize he is defending the honor of a crook, there is a novel car chase along the shore line and a super portable machine gun which Wayne puts to creditable use at the film's climax.

The supporting cast is first-rate. Best is Colleen Dewhurst in a brief role as a barmaid past her prime, divulging underworld information in exchange for some warm, tender hours with Wayne. Even the indomitable Wayne seems to soften in her company and their scenes together emerge as the film's finest.

GARDEN
(Double Feature)

Paper Moon. An enjoyable tale of a slick con man and his nine-year-old tagalong who turns out to be slicker than he is. Fine performances by Ryan O'Neal as the con man and his real-life daughter, Tatum, who has been nominated for an Academy Award for her role as the tagalong, set in the grim '30s and directed by Peter Bogdanovich.

O'Neal is a thirtyish con man with snappy shoes, dashing curly hair and topped off by a moustache that he thinks makes him look raffish. You wouldn't buy a used anything from him. But Tatum takes to him at once and sticks with him through thick and thin. And so wordly wise despite her oine years.

When, for example, he uses her orphaned status to swindle a banker out of $200, she bides her time. Later in a crowded restaurant she looks him in the eye and says in a loud voice: "Give me my $200."

This is not a redemption-through-fatherhood film but rather a tough, somewhat bitter study of scrape-along life in the Depression. Although the scenes are often funny, a lack of joy and kin'dliness permeates. Indeed, at times the film is almost schizophrenic as it alternates between humor and grimness. No matter. Tatum is one of the best things to happen to Hollywood since Haley Mills.

A Touch of Class is a lively romantic comedy with much to commend it. Glenda Jackson and George Segal are cast as a couple of wayward souls involved in trying to set up an affair.

Several accidental meetings finally lead to a carefully planned rendezvous in an apartment, where Segal suggests a more permanent affair. Miss Jackson agrees and that's where the real complications begin.

Both Segal and Miss Jackson give fine performances. (She has been nominated as "Best Actress" for her role.(Her quiet stares and barbs-from-repose find a fine complement in the full-grin slightly nutty good humor of Segal. He does overplay just a bit, but he makes his somewhat klunky insurance executive one of the world's more attractive fools. And a definite plus for the film is some beautiful, witty dialogue.

PLAYHOUSE
(Double Feature)

Summer Wishes, Winter Dream. A remarkably complex film "Summer Wishes, Winter Dreams" is one of the most perceptive studies of a woman's personality in years. Its flaws are overshadowed by excellent performances by Joanne Woodward whose skill at portraying a woman at odds with herself is considerable.

The sudden death of her mother, under whom she had been in silent domination, forces Woodward to reexamine her life as a brittle New York matron and slowly break out of her shell. "Summer Wishes" is a film rooted in everyday life, in the nit-picking squabbles that only similar family members can get into, in the kind of complacency and unnecessary hurts from a mother and a husband that too many years of familiarity can bring.

Basically, it is a film about heredity and blame and it is an epic struggle.

Inwardly, for example, Woodward fears her husband's quiet kindness puts more of the failure on her; outwardly she rebukes his habits, rebuffs his quiet gestures of love, can't bear to be touched.

She is at war with herself until, in a beautifully written, beautifully played final scene of tears and recrimination, she finally makes a possible start on a more equitable life.

The Way We Were is a period piece that covers the mid '30s through the early '50s with a socko performance by Barbra Streisand and by Robert Redford for the ladies. When Barbra is on the screen the film comes alive. Her talent, huge already, seems to grow with every succeediog role.

The early period scenes are funny and evocative. Miss Streisand, determined, humorless, political activist and supporter of good causes, meets Redford in college in the mid '30's. Redford is the top campus athlete, blond and talented. Barbra calls him "America the Beautiful."

The movie, adopted from a novel by Arthur Laurents, falters when it follows the couple, now married, to postwar Hollywood. Redford, a talented writer, has sold out for commercial but second-rate success. Continuing to fight fascism, Barbra becomes a target of a House Un-American Activities Committee's investigation.

As a result, "The Way We Were" is one of the few films to exploit the Red scare of the early 50's engineered by Joe McCarthy, but as a plot device it doesn't come off. In short, the first half of the film has some historical and nostalgic value but the latter part is a sellout.

Pianist Murray Perahia Concludes Series I Season at McCarter

For the final event of this season's Princeton University Concerts, Series I, the 26-year old pianist Murray Perahia performed at McCarter Monday evening. He began with Mozart's Sonata No. 17 in D major, K. 576, and Schumann's "Davidsbundlerstanza", Op. 6, closing after intermission with the Sonata in b minor, Op. 58, by Chopin.

Perahia's musical inclination seems to be toward the romantic literature, but his style surpasses the "flash without feeling" technique common to many young romantic pianists. He played the Mozart Sonata as comfortably as either of the two later works on the program; and those were executed sensitively, the exceedingly difficult passages handled so as to support the rest of the composition, instead of the other way around.

Perahia's attention to the more important lines in the music was evident throughout the concert. His ability to bring these lines out whereever they lay in the overall texture produced great clarity in his performance.

The Mozart Sonata, a relatively contrapuntal piece, benefitted from such treatment. He also brought a strongly romantic outlook to this composition, taking a fair degree of freedom with the dynamics and the tempos—almost too much in some places—but the Sonata was well served by his interpretation.

The second movement was notable for the extreme softness and delicacy he gave to the repeated left hand chords. The finale combined a light spunky tune with spirited passages of more intensity, and Perahia shifted easily between the two moods.

A Fantasy. The "Davidsbundlerstanze," according to Schumann, is a set of 18 dances actually "composed" by two of Schumann's imaginary comrades, the fiery Florestan and the dreamy, poetic Eusebius. The fantasy inherent in such a composition calls for more than the usual amount of careful interpretation in performance. Some of the pieces bear titles to help evoke the proper feeling; e.g., "Ungeduldig" ("Impatient"), "Balladenmassig" ("Like a ballad"), or "Mit Humor" ("With humor").

Perahia's well-paced rendition of these difficult dances brought those characteristics out nicely. In suite of the dense textures, close contrapuntal lines, racing octaves, vehement syncopations, and all the other technical obstacles Schumann is known to pose, Perahia's efforts seemed mainly directed towards illuminating the two imaginary characters who ostensibly composed the music.

Only in the "Wild und lustig" ("Wild and spirited") movement did things get a little out of control; otherwise, he played the virtuoso spots with assured clarity, so that one could concentrate fully on the musical fantasy being offered. The stormy sixth and expansive seventh movements, "Sehr rasch" and "Nicht schnell" ("Very quickly" and "Not fast"), played together almost without pause, were especially impressive, as was the seventeenth movement, "Wie aus der Ferne" ("As if from afar"), with its gradually building intensity toward the close.

Unfortunate Interruption. A leaking steam valve or similar sound (heard at McCarter on previous occasions) was a rude interruption of the second movement, and McCarter would do well to eliminate the cause. Such distractions are an insult to a visiting artist.

The Chopin Sonata had a few more flaws than the other pieces, not all of them Perahia's fault. The slow third movement is not a particularly gratifying composition. The dotted rhythm of the chordal accompaniment, nearly identical to that of the lyrical melody above, interrupts the flow of that line, giving it an angular aspect rather than a smooth one. The piano was also unable to deliver the volume of sound Perahia demanded at the end of the rhapsodic finale, and the tone became tinny.

In addition, some of the more densely written passages lacked the clarity Perahia demonstrated in the earlier pieces. The scherzo was done with such a light accompaniment in the left hand (in which part of the rhythmic definition lies) that it seemed like a nebulous, although remarkably agile, cascade of scalar figures.

Nevertheless, here, too, were many moments of fine music. Perahia took pains to work out his interpretation as he wanted it. The loud ovtave introduction to the slow movement followed the similar ending of the scherzo without interruption, giving it more the character of a transition than an introduction, and conceptually linking the two movements.

The introduction to the well-known finale was a crescendo from "piano" instead of the usual blasting "forte" throughout; this, too, smoothed the transition from the previous soft movement. The finale was the high point of the piece, sporting a passionately played main theme, alternating with absolutely liquid scales, all in all a tour de force.

Perahia finally displayed his agility in two encores, the E flat major Impromptu by Schubert, and a sonata in G major by D. Scarlatti.

HALLELUJAH!

"Messiah" Concert Planned. Trinity Church Adult Choir and Choral Society will join members of the Collegium Musicum chamber orchestra to present Parts II and III (the Lenten and Easter portions) of Handel's best-known oratorio, the "Messiah" on Palm Sunday evening, April 7, at 8 p.m.

Cards of admission at $2 for adults and $1 for students may be purchased in advance, at the Trinity Church office, or at the door on the night of the event.

Soloists for the "Messiah" concert, one of the last in this season's Trinity-All Saints' series, are drawn largely from the Princeton area. Mary Kemp, a popular Princeton soprano, has sung solos with the Musical Amateurs and at St. Andrew's Presbyterian and All Saints' churches.

Suzan Thompson, soprano, recently joined the Westminster Choir College faculty; Shirley Kinsley, mezzo soprano, has performed as soloist at Musical Amateurs and in Trinity Church; Peter Becker, counter tenor, is a former choral scholar of Magdalen College, Oxford, and is now soloist at St. Thomas's Church in New York.

The tenor soloists, Donald Caldwell and Dennis Schrock, are both associated with Westminster Choir College, the former as a senior student and the latter as assistant professor of conducting, and conductor of the Westminster Chamber Singers.

John Woodard and Daniel Pratt, both soloists at Trinity Church, will sing the baritone solos: Mr. Woodard sings also with the Princeton Opera Association, while Mr. Pratt recently joined the Westminster voice faculty and is a former Fulbright scholar in Germany, where he sang in opera, oratorio and lieder recitals.

The "Messiah" will be conducted by James Litton, organist and director of music at Trinity. The orchestra will play under its concertmaster Joseph Kovacs, with Harold Pysher at the organ and Edward Parmentier at the harpsichord. Authentic baroque scoring and ornamentation will be observed throughout. The choir for the occasion includes some 50 voices drawn from the Princeton area, from local colleges and from the University.

PIANO CONCERT LISTED. For Friday, April 5. The Friends of Music will present Susan Haig, pianist, in a recital Friday, April 5 at 8:30

A sophomore at Princeton University, Miss Haig began studying piano at age 6. She has given a number of recitals in her home town of Summit, and in 1970 won the New Jersey Music Educators Competition. She has performed with the Young Artists Chamber Orchestra of New Jersey and is a member of the Trenton Symphony.

For her program in Princeton, Miss Haig will perform Haydn: "Sonata in D Major", Brahms: "Klavierstucke, Opus 119," Chopin: "Mazurka in A Minor, Opus 59, No. 1" and "Fantasie in F Minor, Opus 49," Debussy: "Three Preludes;" J.S. Bach: "Chromatic Fantasy and Fugue in D Minor."

The concert is open to the public, admission free.

CONCERT SCHEDULED

On Life of Jesus Tenor Silas Townsend will be heard in a recital entitled "The Life of Jesus in Spirituals" at Princeton Theological Seminary on Friday, April 5, at 7:30 p.m. The presentation, which is open to the public, will be in the Campus Center auditorium.

Jesus' birth, boyhood, ministry, death and resurrection will be described by the gifted soloist, who has sung the leading male roles in Carmen, I Pagliacci, Carousel, The Most Happy Fella and Finian's Rainbow.

Mr. Townsend, a senior in the Master of Divinity program at Princeton Seminary, is giving the recital in partial fulfillment of the requirements for the Life of Jesus course directed by Drs. Hugh T. Kerr and Johan Christiaan Beker.

He will be accompanied by Nicholas B. Campbell, a second-year Seminary student. Shirley Thompson, a student at Westminster Choir College, will join Mr. Townsend in the Performance.

The program will include such familiar songs as "Go Tell It on the Mountain," "Were You There?" "He Never Said a Mumblin' Word," "Mary Had a Baby" and "Calvary."

"Merry Widow" Tryouts

It will be performed August 29, 30, 31 and September 2, 6, 7 at the Open Air Theater in Washington Crossing State Park. Rehearsals will be held in late spring and August.

In past years "The Count" has headlined numerous jazz festivals and countless tours of America and Europe. In 1961 he and his band played at the Inaugural Ball for President-Elect Kennedy, and in 1966 did a command performance for the Queen of England. His band has been named one of the "Top Five" in polls taken by Downbeat, Playboy, and several European magazines.

Basie is being presented by the Phi Rho Chapter of the national service fraternity: Alpha Phi Omega, at the Choir College. The proceeds are being applied to the establishment of an APO Scholarship Fund, to be awarded to the Westminster student who best

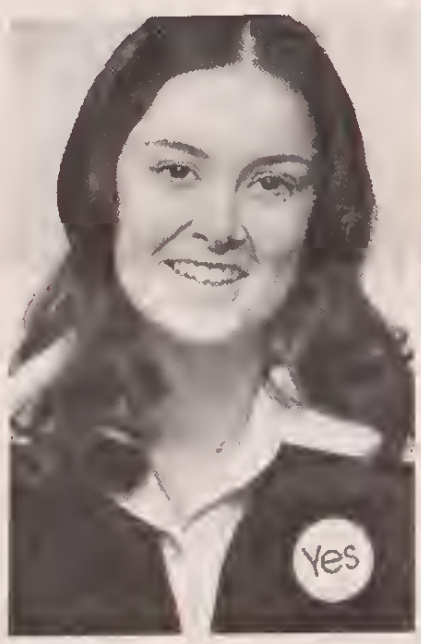
CAN A GIANT CORPORATION CARE ABOUT THE INDIVIDUAL CUSTOMER?



"If a customer has a problem, he should feel he can call us and we can take care of him. At least we'll give it a try. We're always there to try a little harder."
Janice Donofrio, Service Representative, Point Pleasant

"I think there's always room for improvement. I don't think you can ever be satisfied with the quality of service you're giving."
James DeHart, Repairman, Newark

"You have to care 100%. We are representing the phone company. If we don't give our best, the customer will get the feeling the company is not giving its best."
Martha Burton, Service Assistant, Elizabeth Directory Assistance

In our case, the answer is simple. Not only can we care about the individual customer, we want to.

Remember, our business is to serve you. And new employees at New Jersey Bell soon realize that telephone people take their jobs seriously. They find a spirit of concern. A commitment to serve that cuts through all departments at all levels.

So the next time you have a problem or a request we might be able to help you with, let us know. We're always as close as your phone.

We want you to get the most out of your phone service.

REFINISHING IS EASIER

At the Wood Shed. If you have ever attempted to refinish a favorite family chair or a chest bought at an auction, about half-way through the stripping process you probably began to wonder why you ever thought the project might be fun.

While many people enjoy applying a new finish, the removal of the old paint or varnish can be a messy and frustrating job. With gentle process that Mr. Rick Williams calls "hand stripping, 20th century style," the Wood Shed will do this job for you and return your old high chair or inlaid table ready for its new finish.

With a process called Chem-Clean, the Wood Shed first soaks the furniture in a cool solution of organic solvents until the old finish has softened. Then every inch of the piece is rinsed with this same solution and scrubbed with a nylon brush (metal ones tear the wood) until the wood has been returned to its natural state.

Because the Wood Shed does not use water, heat, caustic dips or bleach, the wood stays smooth and natural looking. The glue joints remain intact, and veneer, inlay, rush seats and caning are completely safe.

AT WORK IN THE WOODSHED: With gentle organic solvents, Douglas Henrys of The Wood Shed in Belle Mead is stripping the old varnish from a maple chair. Because there is no heat or water used, the bare wood will be smooth and ready for refinishing as soon as it dries.

Ready for Refinishing. Mr. Williams showed us several pieces of furniture that had already been stripped, such as coffee table with leather inserts still glued tight, a loveseat with an inlay design across the back, and a child's spool bed.

The raw wood is now ready for natural, antiqued or lacquered finish. For do-it-yourselfer, the Wood Shed has printed instructions, supplies and "all the advice you can bear." Mr. Williams believes that anyone can refinish and he works at increasing your confidence.

However, if you lack the time or desire, the Wood Shed refinishes in addition to stripping furniture. When we arrived, Mr. Williams was photographing a fire-damaged mahogony chest that he had beautifully refinished.

As for cost, the stripping process is approximately $7.50 for a chair, $25 for a table with leaves, and $20 for a bed. If the piece is stripped and refinished, a chair costs about $30 and a table $125 to $150.

The Wood Shed also does caning and rushing, and sells some furniture it has refinished. For instance, we saw a set of four caned chairs and a baby's cradle originally made in Maine.

Assisted by his wife, Vouletti, and Mr. Douglas Henrys, Mr. Williams operates this stripping and refinishing center at his remodeled dairy farm on Bridgepoint Road (on the right off Route 206 just north of the Montgomery Shopping Center). The hours at the Wood Shed are from 9 until 5 Tuesday through Friday and 9 until 3 on Saturdays.

50TH YEAR MARKED

By Princeton Clothing. For 50 years Princeton Clothing has been selling to University students and town residents from the same location at 17 Witherspoon Street. The late Mr. Abe Brown bought the store in 1927, and since then there have been only a few changes.

The store no longer handles dry cleaning; it is now twice the original size; and is owned by Mr. Brown's sons, Ben and Marvin. However, Mr. Brown's original concept of selling men's clothing at a reasonable price remains intact.

Despite last weekend's rain, sleet, and snow, Spring has come to Princeton Clothing. We saw brown or blue seersucker sportcoats, yellow linen-like jackets and a large selection of madras and knits, $65 to $85. The knits range from solids to a red Stewart plaid to a grey and black houndstooth.

To go with any of these are slacks which included the regular straight-leg styles as well as flared jeans. We especially liked the polyester and cotton checked pants in red, green, or navy, $20; and the permanent press solid trousers that come in cranberry, pale yellow or a deep olive, each with a co-ordinated woven belt, $17.

Light-Weight Suits. For business or a more formal occasion, there are light-weight suits in glen plaids, checks, twills and our favorite—a washable cord suit in a narrow brown or blue stripe, $85.

Then for the more casual warm-weather moments, there are Bermuda shorts—all of which are permanent press. We saw solids in a wide color range; a houndstooth in blue, gold or grey; and checks in red, brown, or blue, $10 to $13.

Van Heusen has a permanent press short-sleeved summer dress shirt with a traditional button-down oxford look. The body however has been up-dated with a tapered fit for a younger look, $8.50.

We also saw stripes and plaids, and by Arrow, a traditionally styled polyester and cotton shirt with the look of a knit in blue, red or grey, $9.

For spring golfers Princeton clothing has hats; knit shirts by Jantzen in almost any color you could ask for, $9; and McGregor light-weight jackets with a zippered front and deep sfash pockets, available in tan, navy, deep grey or yellow, $18.

Extra services at Princeton Clothing include the rental of formal wear and the sales of many men's accessnries. The

WORLD ON DISPLAY

At Travel Showcase. Six showcases that were once used to display wedding gowns have been cleverly rearranged by Travel Showcase with brochures tempting you to every corner of the world.

Owner Owen Gaskins has devoted each of the showcases to a different destination—Europe, South Pacific and the Orient, family vacations, cruises, the sun countries (Hawaii, Mexico and the Caribbean), and a special monthly display (currently Bermuda).

Each area has a selection of tours (independent, escorted or fly and drive ones), and supplementary files with maps and tourist information on the various countries. Travel Showcase is extremely spacious and Mr. Gaskins hopes people will browse, enjoy some coffee and select whatever brochures they need.

Other features of the store include two private conference areas where you can work out the details of a trip and a small room with a slide projector which will soon have a slide show of suggested vacation areas.

Although he became a music teacher in the Lawrence Township Schools, Mr. Gaskins has been interested in travel since he was about 14. He therefore began to work part-time at Princeton Travel Service and two years later agreed to manage a travel service in California.

It wasn't long beforehe realized that he really wanted his own agencywhere he could concentrate on service. As he told us, "the travel business does not give discounts so only the service can set us apart."

Newly opened, Travel Showcase is located at the Montgomery Shopping Center and is open Monday through Thursday from 9 until 5, Friday from 9 until 8 and Saturdays from 10 until 2.

PHOTOGRAPHS ON VIEW

Art Museum-Exhibit to Open. A major exhibition of work by the young American photographer Danny Lyon will open at The Art Museum of Princeton University next Wednesday. One hundred photographs taken over the past ten years will be on view.

Lyon's photographs document life in the United States, always concentrating on the "odd man out." He deals with the conflicts of the individual within a society and the variant groups found within a larger society.

He is best known for four photographic books: "The Movement," which documents racial conflict in the United States during the '60s; the award-winning "The Destruction of Lower Manhattan," a survey of the demolition of New York's old building for "urban renewal"; "Conversations with the Dead," a book of photographs and text which is a powerful as well as personal document of the Texas prison system; and "Bikeriders," perhaps the best visual and literary record of motorcyclists, from the sporting clubs to outlaws, yet produced.

The exhibition is divided into 12 sections arranged in chronological order and at some points overlapping in time. There are several photographs from the four books mentioned above, as well as photos depicting SNCC demonstrations of 1963 and 1964, a major selection of photographs dealing with small towns in the Southwest, and a large section dealing with Santa Marta, Colombia, a small South American town to which Lyon went in 1972 in search of a motion picture location.

Thomas Garver states in the introduction to the catalogue that accompanies the show: "From the confrontation of the '60s a period of tension and exhilaration both, Lyon grasped an insight into certain people, individually or in groups whom a polite, upwardly mobile society wishes to forget, or at least ignore...concentrating on anomalous clusters of people who are not participants in the 'good life,' but who are outsiders or losers. Lyon himself feels 'these people might live more on the edge of existence, more extreme lives than others, but they also have more feelings and more reality about them' He asks, 'Why are they "out" and your society "in"? Or are you not part of whatever is "in"? History will judge. Where I live everyone is "out" but that is the norm here and therefore they are not out at all.' "

Sponsored by David H. McAlpin, Princeton class of 1920, the exhibition will be on view until May 19. The Art Museum is open free to the public Tuesdays through Saturdays from 10 to 4 and Sundays from 1 to 5.

WATERCOLORS ON VIEW

By Gerry Kimble. Watercolors by Princeton artist Gerry Kimble are on view during April in the 1812 Room at Lambertville House, in Lambertville, N.J. on the Delaware River. A pair of collages by the artist is included in the show.

A former student of such artists as Constance Bonotto, Ranolf Bye, Lucille Geiser and Joseph Rossi, Mrs. Kimble has had numerous shows, including one-man shows (the latest was aboard the S.S. Gripsholm). One of her paintings hangs in the American Embassy in Dublin.

Mrs. Kimble has taught folk art and has been a china painter as well as water colorist. She is now a student at the Pennsylvania Academy of Fine Arts, and conducts private classes in Princeton.

DEADLINE NEARS

For Art Exhibit Entries. New Jersey artists have until mid-April to complete work they wish to enter in the State Museum's ninth annual Art from New Jersey juried exhibition. The exhibition is scheduled for the Main Museum Galleries from June 1 through Labor Day.

A Governor's Purchase Award of $5,000 has been designated for acquiring one or more works from the exhibition for the Museum's permanent collection.

Competition is open to all artists 18 years old or older who live or work in New Jersey. Each may submit one recent painting, sculpture, graphic or construction not exhibited previously at the Museum. There is no entry fee.

Artists must deliver their entries to the Museum between 9 and 4 the week of Monday, April 15, through Saturday, April 20. Selections for the exhibition will be made by the jury on Wednesday, May 1.

Prospectus forms with complete information on AFNJ 9 were mailed the latter part of February to all of the state's artists who had provided the Museum with current address information. Others interested in receiving a prospectus should call the Bureau of Fine Art at (609) 292-5420 or write to the Bureau in care of the N.J. State Museum, 205 West State Street, Trenton 08625.

SCOUTING FOR TICKETS: About 8,500 Boy Scouts in the George Washington Council are beginning a door-to-door campaign to sell tickets for the Boy Scout Show scheduled May 4 and 5 at the Lawrence Township Eggerts Crossing Armory. Tickets are $1 and proceeds will underwrite the cost of the show. SPORTS FANS!
I BET YOU DIDN'T KNOW

Brought to you
By John Bernard

One of the most unusual golf incidents in history happened in a tournament in Houston, Tex. a few years ago when golfer Bob Rosburg made a hole-in-one that wasn't a hole-in-one...Rosburg hit a drive off the 12th tee but the ball hooked badly, hit a tree and bounced crazily the wrong way--not to the 12th green--but to the 13th and right into the cup...It was one of the rarest of golf shots--a hole-in-one in the wrong hole!

Of all the teams in sports history, which one has lost the most games over the years? ... Answer is the Philadelphia Phillies baseball team which since 1900 alone has lost over 6,000 games ... No other team in any sport is close to that.

Here's a tough question that very few fans can answer ... Before Babe Ruth came along, who held the record for most home runs in a lifetime? ... Oddly enough, he is a forgotten man today--a little-known player named Roger Connor who played in the majors from 1880 to 1897 and hit 136 lifetime homeruns ... Although he was the all-time home run champ before Ruth, Connor isn't even in the baseball Hall of Fame.

I bet you didn't know that all the insurance companies in our office are rated A+AAAA. It pays to deal with the best--the very best!

Carnegie, a Dying Lake 3 Years Ago, Now Best Of U.S. Rowing Courses—Thanks to Bud Smith

Three years ago, it would have been far-fetched to imagine Princeton's Lake Carnegie as the future home of rowing in the United States. Today, however, it not only has achieved that distinction, but is also the nation's lone internationally recognized course.

In 1971, Carnegie's future looked dim. The gradual silting over the past 60 years since the lake had been built had brought the bottom dangerously close to the top, and provided the proper environment for a myriad of acquatic weeds to flourish, causing concern among environmentalists, shore property owners and especially those in charge of the University's rowing program.

For environmental purposes, no dredging was done closer than 35 feet from shore.

It was then that Albridge C. "Bud" Smith III, a 1936 Princeton graduate, former oarsman, and long-time collegiate and international rowing official, decided to take a hand. Smith spearheaded a drive to raise funds to dredge the lake, and then personally pledged an Albano buoy system to "insure that Lake Carnegie would become the best race course in the United States."

Bud Smith died last March, shortly before he would have seen the final results of his long and tireless efforts on behalf of Princeton crew. The University, recognizing his dedication, honored his memory by naming the new rowing showcase the "Albridge C. Smith III Memorial Rowing Course."

$1 per Yard. The dredging of the lake took one year of round-the-clock operation by an 18-inch hydraulic dredge. Over one million cubic yards of silt and gravel were removed from the three-mile long lake, at approximately $1 per yard.

The result was a lake no shallower than six feet and a race course that had a univorm depth of nine feet.

First Race Saturday

The 1974 rowing season will open on Lake Carnegie Saturday with a six-race regatta climaxed by the meeting between Princeton and Rutgers for the Logg Cup. The Scarlet will defend the trophy it won last April on the Raritan River by half a length.

The first three races will involve the Rutgers and Pennsylvania lightweights, rowing at 20-minute intervals from 2:50 on. The Rutgers-Princeton freshman heavies will leave the stake boats at 3:50, the jayvees at 4:10 and the varsities at 4:30. All races will cover the Olympic distance of 2,000 meters.

Princeton's 150-lb. crew will row Saturday on the Harlem River again against Columbia. The Tiger lightweights were unbeaten last spring, their string of victories including the Thames Challenge Cup race at Henley, England.

SPORTS in Princeton

The buoy system was designed by Coach Peter Sparhawk and Freshman Coach Michael McLaughlin and was built by both the coaches and oarsmen. The buoys are made of a soft rubber-like foam dipped in vinyl and are harmless to oars and shells. They are spaced at 20 meter intervals and "float" a special stainless steel cable at a depth of four feet.

Anchoring for the buoy system is accomplished by a single 25-pound Danforth-type anchor at the starting-line end. At the finish-line end, the cable leads around a pully to a small winch mounted on a pipe which is driven into the lake bottom about ten feet from the shore. Adequate tension on the cable eliminates the need for cross cables.

Ideal Conditions. The course consists of six 2000-meter racing lanes and a return lane, and is sheltered from excessive winds on both sides, which makes for an ideal rowing site. A total of 700 buoys was used in the streamline project.

Because of the layout of the lake, crews can warm up before arriving at the actual race course, thus avoiding congestion around the starting line. There are also unlimited launching facilities which makes the course a logical selection for National Championship competition.

Last summer the team trials for the World Youth Games in Moscow and the National Junior Championships were held on the new course. In 1975 the Eastern Sprints will be brought back to Princeton, possibly on a permanent basis. The reaction to the facilities by participants has been most enthusiastic.

Spectators and press personnel have been a prominent object of attention during the rebuilding of the Lake Carnegie course. The site is the only one in the country where the finish line is on an angle to the course, allowing spectators to look down the entire 2000 meters. Rowing followers are lucky to see the final 500 meters at other courses.

Dramatic Setting. The finish line has a theatre effect and is sloped to allow over 8,000 people to watch the race. A permanent dug-out for the press and a judging facility will also be built.

The major purpose of making Lake Carnegie a rowing showcase, however, is to promote crew at Princeton, especially the heavyweight program. The latter has been in a depressed period the past few years, but the athletic department has a commitment to putting the program back in the elite class of national competition.

"It follows," said Sparhawk, "that a top heavyweight oarsman will take a close look at the finest facility in the country when he weighs all factors relating to his decision on where to attend college. Eventually, we feel we can be near the number one spot in national collegiate ratings."

When that happens, Princeton will have quite a program. Already the 150-lb. crew is the number one eight in the world, the women's crew was third in the nation last year, and it has the finest

Tiger Ball Team Wins Tournament in Florida—Scores 18 Runs in One Inning, Winning, 29 to 1

Princeton's baseball team, which averaged less than three runs a game last year despite achieving a commendable season, played five games in Florida last week and contrived to score a total of 70 runs for an astonishing average of 14 per contest. As a result of such unaccustomed cannonading, the Tigers won the Florida East Coast Tournament when they bested Wesleyan, Ursinus and the host team, Florida Bible College, by compiling a 3-1 record in four days of play.

Most remarkable, of all that transpired was an 18-run first inning against Ursinus, during the course of which the losing coach went to Eddie Donovan and suggested that maybe it would be wisest to limit the game to five innings. Although he was enjoying the occasion hugely, Donovan has a humane streak that matches his soft-spoken demeanor, and they called it at five. By that time, the scoreboard read: Princeton 29, Ursinus 1.

The game saw the Tigers set all sorts of records for baseball at Old Nassau during the modern (post-World War I) era. Twenty-four men went to bat, six of them three times a piece, before the losers managed to retire three of them. Eighteen runs scored—on no more than 10 hits—but Ursinus pitchers issued eight walks. Somewhat surprisingly, the losers were charged with only two errors.

Last-Ditch Homer Wins. The week in Hollywood, Florida, began with heroics rarely provided by Princeton baseball: a three-run, two-out homer that provided the Tigers with an 8-6 victory over Wesleyan. It was a 340-foot blast by centerfielder Glenn Christy, one of numberous sophomores who has given Donovan a long-awaited upturn in power at the plate.

An early 3-0 lead had vanished as the Connecticut nine pushed three runs across twice in the middle innings. Single markers in the seventh and ninth narrowed the gap to 6-5 before Christy delivered to left center, making a winner of sophomore Jim French in relief.

The first game was not part of the four-day tournament; when it did begin next day, the Tigers suffered a reversal of their fortunes and lost to Wesleyan, 9-6, as both the pitching and the defense sagged badly. Steve Crandall, second of three pitchers Donovan used, took the loss as a 6-5 lead was erased in the seventh largely because of four walks and two errors.

Sophomore Mark Softy's first varsity appearance Thursday brought the Orange and Black a 13-1 triumph over Florida Bible. The Tigers banged out 16 hits and played errorless ball while Softy worked the first six innings to raise his overall Princeton record to 9-0.

Finals Saturday. Friday brought the laugher against Ursinus, but when Wesleyan lost that day to Florida Bible, it sent the Tigers against Wesleyan into the championship round with identical 2-1 records. By the top of the ninth, the Orange and Black had an 11-2 lead and it was just as well, since the losers pushed over five runs before sophomore Doug Lorenz came along to strike out the last man with runners on second and third.

Scott McHenry, pitching a strong first six innings, was the winner, Captain Ken Beytin, who experienced a season-long hitting slump last spring, collected two hits and two rbi's.

Most positions in the lineup remain unsettled—a welcome sign in view of the competition numerous sophomores are giving varsity holdovers. Sophomore Kevin Plunkett appears to have won the catching assignment, and Beytin is the logical choice at first, although he was used in Florida in the designated pinch hitter's slot—a new wrinkle in college ball this spring, 12 months after it was adopted by the American League.

Other infield positions are open, including the possibility that senior John Cullinane may be switched from second to short, where the team lacks a steady glove. Christy is the likely choice to continue in centerfield, where he played every inning of all five games and was the only player to do so.

A trip to Easton, Pa. to face Lafayette was on the schedule Wednesday to open the season officially (five games in Florida were listed as exhibitions.) Manhattan will be at Clarke Field Friday at 3:30 for the home opener, with Colgate here Saturday at 2.

There are almost as many games as days off in the abbreviated season, with Buffalo here Monday before the Tigers go to New Brunswick for the first in the annual home-and-home series with Rutgers. The Eastern League season begins Friday, April 12, with a single contest against Brown and a doubleheader the next afternoon with Yale.

LACROSSE TEAM ROUTED

By Johns Hopkins, 21 to 7. Mud, rain, temperature in the 30s and a 21-7 trouncing at the hands of Johns Hopkins made Princeton's home opener in lacrosse Saturday a long, wet afternoon. The Tigers periodically have hopes of defeating the Bluejays, but the Poe Field contest was their eighth straight loss to them and one of the worst in the long series.

The visitors moved out to a 9-4 lead by half-time and then scored eight times in the next 15 minutes while holding the Orange and Black to a pair of goals. Sophomore Pete George and senior Jon Pettit provided most of the Princeton attack, the former getting three and the Princeton resident a pair. John Hopkins outshot the Tigers, 55 to 40, goalie Bill Cronin having

The first roller skate was invented by Joseph Merlin of Belgium in 1760. Probably roller derby champions today wouldn't recognize the original model. Unfortunately, it was not fun to skate on one of these old-time models, and it took several improvements to make the sport popular. A really good roller skate finally appeared in 1866, at the hand of James L. Plimpton, of New York City. Mr. Plimpton opened the first public skating rink in the world at Newport, Rhode Island, that year.

A Special Announcement From
WALTER FOSTER
President of Nassau Savings

Nassau Savings now announces that savers can greatly increase the returns on their funds by having dividends added to their certificates. For instance, with this new approach to savings, a $5,000 7¼% certificate returns an average yield of 7.44% if kept at Nassau for a full 4 years. Certificates are compounded quarterly and interest is credited to the certificate, thus resulting in interest being paid on interest. Mr. Foster also stated that shorter term certificates at high rates are available. Regulations permit certificate withdrawals before maturity, provided rate of interest is reduced to regular savings passbook rate and 3 months interest is forfeited. Nassau Savings and Loan pays 5¼% per year on passbook savings, day-in, day-out, compounded and paid quarterly.

Boy, 16, Rolls 298 Game

Sixteen-year old Chuck Burrough rolled a 298 Sunday in the Princeton Boys League at the Princeton Recreation Lanes on Nassau Street.

Chuck, son of Dave Burrough, 73 Jefferson Road, owner of the lanes, left the 6 and 10 pins in the final frame after collecting 11 strikes in a row. He finished with a 631 series.

The previous high game this season for Chuck, who is a member of the Princeton High School varsity bowling team, was a 209. His average is 151.

Chuck's game came within one pin of tying the high house game of 299 rolled a number of years ago by Joe Baldino. In the more than 20 years that the Recreation Lanes has been in operation, no one has fashioned a 300 game.

tough day as he made 20 saves and saw 21 go by.

Hofstra was on the mid-week schedule for a game Wednesday at 3 on Finney Field and Washington and Lee will play here next Tuesday at the same hour. The Tigers then head for Annapolis to face a tough Navy ten Saturday, April 13, and will be in Providence on the 17th to open their Ivy schedule. Victory in two of these four rugged contests would be a major step toward the goal of topping the .500 mark this season.

ANDERSON TAKES OVER PHS Track Program. The new head track coach at Princeton High School is a former middle distance runner in college who still runs competitively and trains 1 to 1½ hours every day.

Marc Anderson is a 1970 graduate of Central Michigan University where he ran the 440 and 600 ("we won our conference every year") and still runs for the Shore Athletic Club in Long Branch. Marc says at the end of each PHS practice session he trains 1-1½ hours to stay in shape for the SAC which participates in indoor meets and such events as the Penn and Quantico Marine relays. "It keeps me going," he said.

Right now, Marc is more interested in restoring some of the lost lustre of the PHS track team. He sees his task as much missionery as instructing. "It's important to get them started in the middle school years, to get them out for the sport and active so they will keep their interest."

It takes time to develop good teams, and Anderson cited the sponsorship of the Junior Olympics and Jadwin Gym programs by the Princeton Recreation Department as helpful in getting kids interested in track at an early age.

As overall head coach, he is being assisted by Jim Peachell (field events) and by John Fisher of the Middle School who will concentrate on shot and discus. Also by Lamont Fletcher and Sue Cirullo, who are primarily concerned with the girls track team. But under the new reciprocal system installed this year, coaches from either squad will assist with each other as the need arises.

A quick assessment of this year's squad by Anderson finds it strong in the middle and longer distances, weak in the weight events and sprints. "If we can get the sprint and weight events straightened out we'll be competitive with most teams," he said. "I'm definitely optimistic, I'm sure no one is going to embarrass us."

In two changes this year in high school track, the 180-yard hurdles have been replaced with a 330-yard intermediate hurdle event (the height is midway between low and high hurdles) and performers can now enter four events as opposed to three last year. This should help PHS, never as deep as a team.

However, milers and two milers, where PHS is strongest, can enter only one event--which will handicap Anderson, who must spread his talent around.

Wilson Top Sprinter. Senior Freddie Wilson, who enjoyed a fine winter track season--Anderson guided PHS to the Mercer County title--is expected to be the PHS mainstay in the 100, 220 and 440. "He's a real strong, all-around talented runner," said Anderson. "In the sprints he should be as good as anybody in the league."

Wilson and miler John Woodside are co-captains of the team.

Helping out in the sprints will be sophomores Tommy Thomas and Tommy Brans and freshman Tony Strong. Brans lettered in the 220 in winter track. Junior Rick Hannye will run the 440 along with Brand and Wilson.

Steve Roderick returns at the 880, one of Princeton's weaker events last year. Roderick has all the tools he needs, commented Anderson, "but he had an up and down season last year. If he gets going, he'll be good."

A pair of seniors, Mike Clohossey and Rex Hay, both experienced, will backup Roderick.

At the mile, one begins to arrive at Princeton's strength. The best is Woodside, who Anderson labeled one of the better milers in the county. Three times this winter Woodside has run a 4:31 mile and Anderson is certain he'll break through the 4:30 barrier. A versatile runner, Woodside can run the two-mile and half-mile equally well.

Junior Morgan Snyder, another fine miler (he's run a 4:34 mile) may drop down this spring to help shore up the half-mile event. "It will depend on the competition and what they have," Anderson stated. Mike Bolster, another junior, also runs the mile but has not yet done what he is capable of, says Anderson.

In Pete Nichols, Tim Anderson and Royce Flippin, PHS has three outstanding two-milers. "It doesn't look like anybody in the conference will challenge Nichols" said Anderson. In fact, any challenge will probably come from Anderson and Flippin.

Anderson, who lowered Nichols' board track record for the mile at PHS from 4:41.8 to 4:41.2, may drop down to the mile. Flippin, only a sophomore, finished second in the state meet in winter track.

In the hurdle events, Mark McLean heads a contingent that includes Andy Bolster, Scott Brand, Paul Campbell and Wilson.

Field Events Thin. In past years, PHS has been weak in the field events and this year is no exception. "We have mostly a lot a young kids and seniors out for the first time. It's our biggest question mark and will determine what kind of a season we have," predicted Anderson.

Willied Alexander and Lou Drury, the Little Tigers' two outstanding weight performers, have been lost by graduation. "No one has come close to what they had done," said Anderson.

Two seniors, both former football linemen, have come out for the first time: Dave Harwood and Blair Thompson. But while each has size and strength, you don't, Anderson remarked, learn the technique of how to throw the discus or shot overnight.

Tom Bart, a sophomore weight man on the winter track team, and junior Tyler Jones are the ones who will challenge Harwood and Thompson. In the javelin, senior Dave Gilbert returns and expected to back him up are two newcomers - junior Dave Lion and Richard Mosley.

McLean is the number one vaulter. He has cleared 12-2 and has set a goal of 14 feet for himself. Anderson commented that McLean has lifted weights and run to build his strength and "he just might do it. He has his heart set on a good season."

Other vaulters are Bill Alpert, a senior and a veteran, and Paul Campbell.

Fred Berkelhammer, who earned a letter in the high jump as a freshman, returns to make PHS a threat in that event. He has cleared 6-0 as a sophomore and has unlimited potential Anderson reports. McLean, Wilson and sophomore Eric Siolkowski are also listed on Anderson's jumping roster.

Another long-time weak event for PHS which Anderson hopes to strengthen with the help of Wilson, McLean and Campbell is the long jump. "We need points there. We'd been swept in that too often and you don't win meets getting swept," Anderson said.

"It's hard to say how we'll do," said Anderson, trying to assess the coming season. "In the conference it looks like Ewing, Hamilton and Trenton will be strong. After that, it will be nip and tuck. I think we have a chance to be right up there.

"We have a situation where we have a lot of guys who have to come through for us. We can't afford any sickness or injuries because we don't have the depth but I'm looking forward to it."

Ferguson, McDougald Again Win Paddle Title

A lot of water has gone over the dam in 12 months (plenty of it this past weekend), but not much has changed in the men's platform tennis championships.

Several preliminary quarter and semi-final matches in the two-day, rain-plagued tourney reduced the field to the same two teams that met in the final round a year ago. And George Ferguson, Jr. and Frank McDougald, Jr. were equal to the task again, defeating Don Reed and Gerald Mould in four sets, 6-4, 3-6, 6-3, 6-2. A year ago, the winners also won in four sets, losing the second.

Continuing to follow last year's route, Ferguson and McDougald again beat Nick Bayard and Gordon Large in a semi-final round, 6-2, 8-6. Reed and Mould went three sets before knocking off Jim Hughes and Bob Thomas, 7-5, 3-6, 6-1.

The consolation finals also had repeat winners in Don and Steve Shaffer, who won a 6-4, 5-7, 4-2, victory over Don Barr and Jack Roberts. Play was halted in the third set, when Barr suffered a leg injury, possibly a torn muscle.

In the women's championships, held for the first time this year, Connie Fleming and Sue McCabe overpowered Nina Moyer and Enid Woodworth, 6-2, 6-3. In the semi-finals, McCabe-Fleming needed three sets to beat Miles Dumont and Margie Smith, 6-8, 6-2, 6-2, Moyer-Woodworth triumphed over Bailey Symington and Dot Katz, 6-2, 6-2.

Bob Holzman placed second, followed by Dick Jesser and Walt Gibson. In all, 13 skippers competed in the 25 races. In the final day's races, LaFountain came in first, Gibson second and Jesser third.

Sunday's diminished winds also brought out some Laser sailers for a tune-up race for the Spring Series which will start next week for both Lasers and Sunfish. The tune-up was won by John Henderson followed by Warren Johnson and Doug Boone.

IVY INN VICTOR

In Adult Basketball Finals. Ivy Inn defeated El-De's in two straight games to capture the Adult Basketball League's Playoff Championship. In both games Ivy's foul line superiority and Mike Maguire's fine play were the deciding factors.

In its opening game 76-63 victory, Ivy was outscored from the field, but converted 28 of 35 free throw attempts (to just 5 of 11 for El-De's) and Maguire hit for 32 points, 13 in the crucial fourth quarter. Ivy broke quickly in front 6-0, then saw El-De's rally to take a 16-14 edge on John Madden's jumper as the first quarter ended.

The teams fought on even terms through the second quarter, with Willie Hill's five field goals enabling El-De's to maintain a 30-28 halftime margin. Ivy grabbed the lead twice during the exciting third period, but key scores by John and Charlie Madden helped El-De's stay on top 47-46 entering final period action.

Maguire and Bob Mucharielli baskets put Ivy ahead and two straight Tom Michaud jumpers gave the barmen a 54-48 lead. With 3:51 remaining and a five-point (58-53) advantage, Ivy spread out its offense and began to hold the ball as a desperate El-De's was forced to foul.

Accurate foul shooting then helped Ivy pull away to the final 13-point margin. Maguire's game high 32 included 18 of 21 free throws, while Michaud added 17 for the winners. Hill's 18 and John Madden's 17 paced El-De's.

Ivy, with Maguire hitting for five early field goals, spurted to a 20-11 first period spread in to trail by one (34-33) at halftime. Clutch shooting by Maguire and Michaud put Ivy up by 46-41 after three quarters.

John Bailey cut the margin to three as the fourth quarter began, but Ivy put together an 8-2 drive and increased the count to 53-45 with 6:07 left.

El-De's hung in and, after Ivy's Michaud fouled out, cut its deficit to four (59-55) on Willie Hill's basket at 2:40. Houston Hinson answered with two fouls, then Hinson deflected an errant El-De's pass to Maguire, whose layup at 2:07 gave Ivy a comfortable eight point lead.

El-De's could get no closer than six in the last two minutes as Ivy gained a 70-62 triumph. Both teams connected for 26 field goals, but Ivy netted 18 free throws to just 10 for El-De's.

Maguire's 26 markers again showed the way for the 1974 champions. Hinson had 15 and Michaud 14. John Madden had 18 points for the losers, Bailey and Hill each contributed 16.

ALL-STARS VICTORS

Top Conte's Bar, 76-62. A team of All-Stars defeated regular season champion Conte's Bar 76-62 as the Princeton Recreation Department Adult Basketball Program ended its season last week. The All-Star game was conceived and promoted by John Pesce, former Princeton High and Rutgers football place kicking star, and was selected by a vote of league players and coaches.

The starting five consisted of John Bailey (El-De's) and Bruce Coburn (Kingston W & L) at forwards; Houston Hinson (Ivy Inn) at center; Mark Baldwin (Perks) and Dennis Wilson (PMC) at guards. They were backed up by Willie Hill (El-De's), Tim Kearns (Kingston) and Rob Staats (Perks).

Mike Maguire and Tom Michaud of Ivy Inn, both voted to the team, were unable to participate. The All-Stars were coached by Tony Pirone of playoff champion Ivy Inn.

The outcome of the contest was never really in doubt, as the All-Stars with Houston Hinson rebounding and blocking shots, used great team defense and hot shooting by Bruce Coburn and Dennis Wilson to gain a 20-10 first-quarter lead. Conte's seemed unable to mount an offense as the ballhawking, fast-breaking Stars ran the count to a surprising 43-22 at the intermission.

Conte's regrouped behind Whit Rutter, Bill McQuade, and Craig Hannas and a 22-point third period brought the league champions to within range at 55-44 as the final quarter began. Here the Stars' superior depth began to tell as tiring Conte's, playing with only six men, fell off the pace.

Coburn and Wilson combined to help the stars maintain a comfortable margin the rest of the way. Bruce Coburn (22 points, 14 in the decisive first half) was named MVP for the All-Stars, whose Dennis Wilson also hit for 22. Houston Hinson added 11, John Bailey and Willie Hill six each. Tim Kearns four, Rob Staats three, and Mark Baldwin two to the winners total of 76.

Whit Rutter, who scored 21 pts. was MVP for Conte's. Bill McQuade netted 18 for the losers, Craig Hannas tabbed 10, Mike Desmond eight, Jim McLeod three, and Jack Roberts two.
